Baldridge Faces Charge Of Murder

Fayette Countian Pleads Innocent To Second Degree Accusation

George Baldridge, 63, has been bound over to the Fayette County grand jury on $100,000 bond in the fatal shooting of Irvin J. Patrick, Fayette County game protector, on Baldridge's farm early Tuesday. Patrick formerly lived in Pickaway County.

Baldridge, former Adams County sheriff, pleaded innocent to a charge of second degree murder in Washington C. H. Municipal Court at noon today before Judge Max Dice. The accusation was filed against Baldridge by Mrs. Marie Patrick, the 43-year old game protector's widow.

Baldridge was represented by E. S. Young, a former Adams County common pleas judge for 12 years. Baldridge waived a preliminary hearing in making his plea and was ordered held in the county jail in the custody of Sheriff Orland Hays.

Patrick was shot in the groin with a 12-gauge shotgun on the Baldridge livestock farm, about five miles north of Washington C. H. The shooting occurred at 9 a. m., one hour after Ohio's small game hunting season opened.

* * *

LEE ROACH, assistant chief of the state wildlife division in Columbus, said Patrick was shot after he and Jack Kamman, district wildlife officer of Chillicothe, encountered a hunting party of about seven men with hen pheasants in their possession. Small game regulations allow only cock pheasants to be taken.

Held for questioning was Don Butler, 48, of Seaman in Adams County, charged with having the illegal birds.

Baldridge claims that the gun was accidentally discharged while he and Patrick were tusseling for possession of it, according to his statement to Sheriff Hays.

According to Kamman, when Baldridge came up to the car in which he and Patrick and Butler were seated and threatened the officers with the gun if they insisted upon holding Butler, Patrick said: "We'd better talk this thing over" and stepped from the car. After a few words with Baldridge, Patrick made a quick grab for the shotgun and still held on to it when the gun was discharged. The entire load plowed into Patrick's left side and hip.

* * *

WHEN HE fell to the ground, Baldridge backed up the road some 20 yards, still holding the single barrel shotgun, Kamman said.

Kamman, realizing that quick action was necessary if he was to save Patrick's life, placed him in the car and rushed him to Fayette Memorial Hospital, but he was dead on arrival.

Baldridge came into Washington C. H., went to the sheriff's office and surrendered himself.

Baldridge came to Fayette County from Adams County, where he served two terms as sheriff, from 1934 through 1938. He was a farmer, but in recent years had sold real estate.

Robert Butler, son of Donald Butler, and who resides at Millersburg, was on the scene at the time but said he did not hear what was said. Both Butlers witnessed the shooting, they told Sheriff Hays.

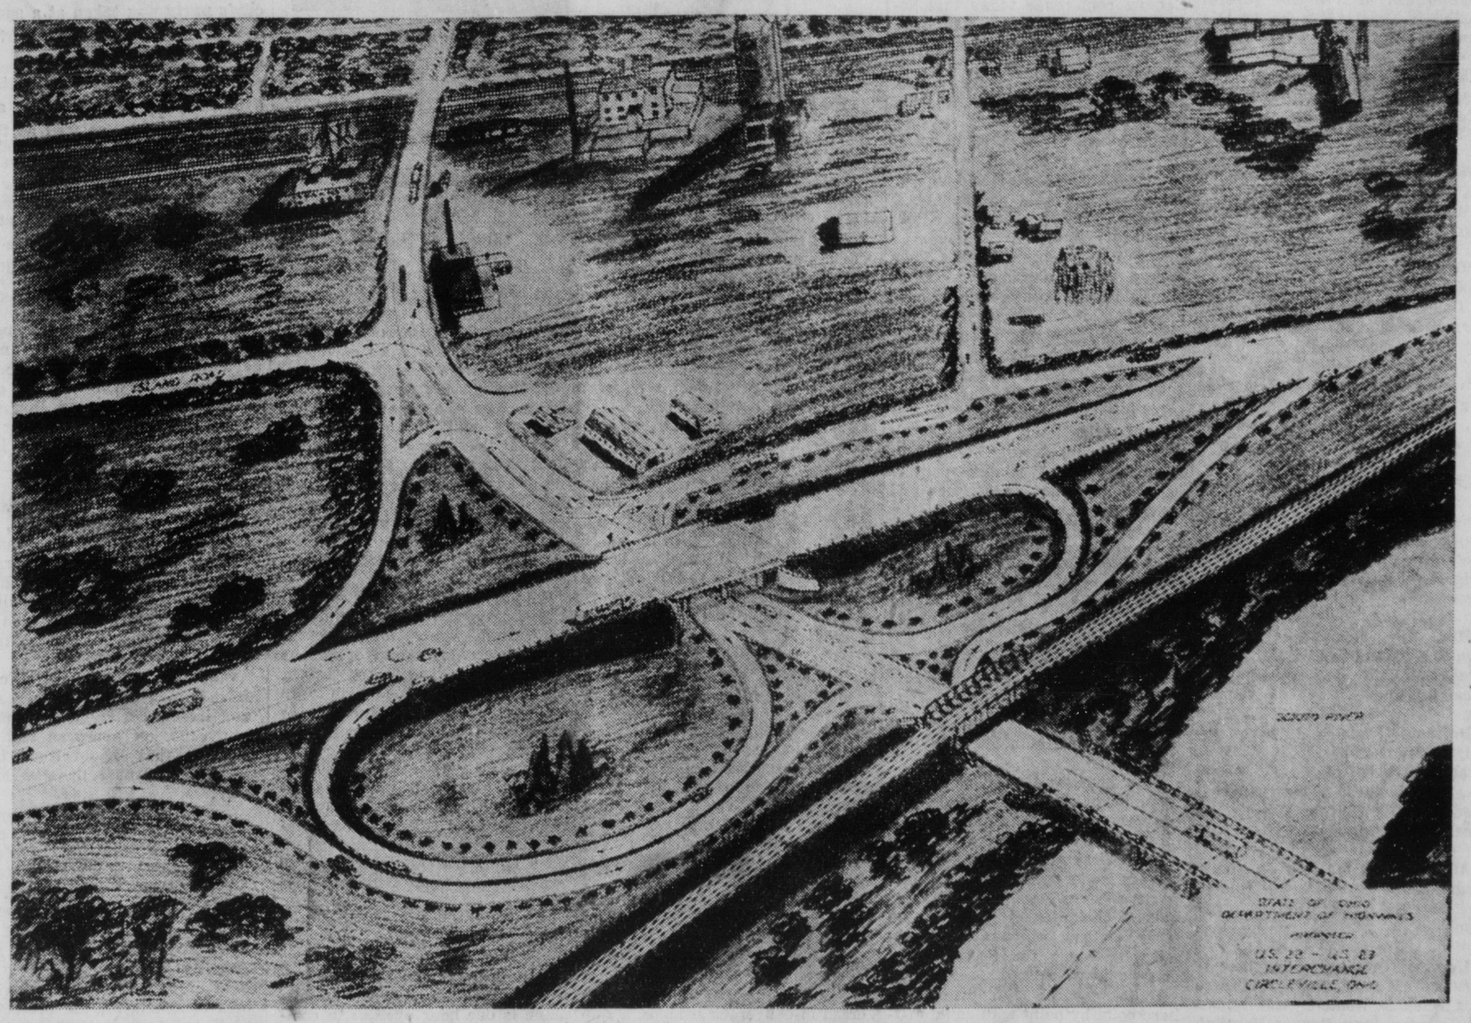

* * *

COURT RECORDS here disclose that on Dec. 4, 1946, Baldridge was indicted for shooting at Lawrence Alexander of Washington C. H. with intend to wound.

The fine and jail sentence were suspended when Baldridge agreed to pay Alexander $14.78, which Alexander claims was due him.

Patrick had been in the Conservation Deparament service for 14 years and had served in Fayette County for eight years. He began

THE ABOVE drawing, prepared exclusively for The Herald, shows the important place a new bridge (lower right) across the Scioto River west of Circleville will play in the central section of the Route 23 bypass. Bids on construction of a new span were opened today by the State Highways Department, thus in effect launching actual work on a vast program that will loop a new four-lane high way around the corporation's western edge, and likewise provide for modernization of the city's highway approaches in that locality. The illustration shows how the new bridge will fit into planning for the interchange to be built at the point where the bypass will cross over Route 22. The view indicated by the drawing is toward the city, looking east. Mound Street, leading into Circleville from the west, is shown on the right in the upper half of the drawing. At left, in the upper half, Route 22 curves into the end of W. Main St. Arrows indicate the traffic pattern that will be established by the interchange.

Bids Opened On Span To Begin Big Job

Highways Department Says Nearly All Properties Acquired

Leading the way for a $5 million project that will loop the Route 23 bypass around the western edges of Circleville, bids were opened today on construction of a new bridge across the Scioto River here on Route 22.

Construction plans for the bridge have been coordinated with the bypass project because of an interchange contemplated to carry the bypass over Route 22. Approaches to the interchange, with its half-cloverleaf traffic pattern, will be only a short distance east of the new bridge.

Apparent low bidder on the latter job was the W. M. Brode Company of Newcomerstown. The firm bid $465,674, against a state estimate of $474,600. Completion date for the bridge construction is June 30, 1957.

In opening bids on the steel girder span, the state highway department in effect launched the actual construction phase of a giant project that, for a number of years, had this community deadlocked in controversy.

The bypass job itself will be up for bids on November 29. All the necessary rights-of-way have been acquired, the department said, with the exception of a few properties which are still being negotiated.

* * *

A BRIEF description of the Route 23 relocation was outlined as follows:

Beginning about one-fourth mile south of the city's southern limits, the bypass route will pass near the southwest corner of the Veterans allotment property and cross the Pennsylvania Railroad near the south end of Maplewood Ave. From that point the new highway will run for a distance parallel to the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad tracks and property of the Container Corporation.

Crossing W. Main St. near the Ankrom Lumber Company, the route than crosses Island Road near the northwestern corner of the corporation line. It crosses the C & O tracks north of the Sturm and Dillard gravel plant, and then continues north on the west side of the railroad, joining the existing Route 23 north of Bell Siding.

Half of the estimated $5 million cost will be paid for by federal funds and half by the state from bond funds—the $500 million bond issue administered by the state's Highway Construction Council.

The city of Circleville, more than a year ago, withdrew its western corporation line to permit the bypass to be built outside the municipality. Spokesmen for the highways branch explained that the city was involved in the project only to the extent of granting a consent ordinance for work

Adlai To Shun Talk Of Health

References To Ike Not To Enter Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said today it would be foolish to say the people would not take into account the survival chances of a presidential candidate but he will not make health an issue in his campaign for the 1956 Democratic nomination.

Announcing that he will enter the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary, Stevenson answered a wide range of questions at a news conference.

One of these questions concerned the health of President Eisenhower and of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader. Both men suffered heart attacks in recent months.

Stevenson said he hopes and prays Johnson's "misfortune in no way limits his future activities or his usefulness."

"And the same goes for anyone else, specifically the President of the United States," Stevenson declared.

The former Illinois governor who was defeated by Eisenhower in 1952, said he could not speculate on the possibilities that Eisenhower again will be the Republican candidate. Stevenson said he hadn't thought so but the President's recovery had been rapid, and he had read reports that some persons thought he would run again.

* * *

SEN. JOHNSTON has been represented as working for a wide-open Democratic nominating convention, a circumstance that has convinced some of Stevenson's friends that the Texas senator may not be in Stevenson's corner at that convention. Johnson is considered in some quarters as a possible candidate for the nomination.

Stevenson said he thought it would be "foolish to say that people will not take into account the chances of survival of a candidate or whether he can perform the duties of office."

"But I certainly will never make health an issue myself," he said.

Stevenson said doctors told him after a recent semi-annual medical examination "that for one of my age I was in better than normal condition," adding with a grin: "I have no excuses from now on."

Ailing Brazilian Chief Coming Back

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's five-day-old government was faced with a possible new crisis today. Joao Cafe Filho may return from sick leave and try to take back his old job as president.

Close friends said he is so far recovered from his heart attack Nov. 3 he may be ready to resume the presidency by Friday.

Under the constitution, he is entitled to end his sick leave and take back the office when he chooses, but if and when he does he will run into the opposition of the same military forces that ousted his temporary successor, Carlos Da Luz, in a coup last Thursday.

Luz was ousted because, his opponents charged, he and his associates planned a coup to prevent President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek from assuming office Jan. 31.

AFL-CIO Merger Getting Start

WASHINGTON (AP)—Virtually all arrangements are reported complete for merging the headquarters staff of the AFL and CIO looking toward amalgamation of the two labor organizations next month.

An argument over whether James McDevitt, head of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education, or Jack Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee would direct political activities was reported resolved.

Informed sources said they will serve as co-directors of the political department of the merged AFL-CIO. The name of the new political department is undecided.

Airliner-Bomber To Face Colorado Murder Accusation

DENVER (AP)—John Gilbert Graham, 23, baby-faced father of two children, will be arraigned on a murder charge tomorrow in the dynamiting of a United Air Lines plane. The blast killed Graham's mother and 43 other passengers.

The state moved swiftly to prosecute late yesterday after U. S. Atty. Donald Kelley turned the case over to Denver Dist. Atty. Bert Keating for filing of murder charges.

A murder complaint against Graham was signed by W. A. Patterson of Chicago, president of the air lines. Keating said he would ask death in the gas chamber.

The complaint specifically charges Graham with murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King, 54, who lived with him in Denver. He insured her life for $37,500 after escorting her to start the fatal flight Nov. 1.

The bomb, hidden in Mrs. King's luggage, exploded high over Longmont, Colo., ripping to pieces the DC6B mainliner shortly after it had taken off from the Denver airport.

* * *

GUARDS PLACED Graham under extra security precautions in Denver County jail. He is held without bond. Warden Gordon Dolliver said an unidentified man threatened by telephone a mob would storm the jail to take Graham out.

From outward appearances, guards said, Graham showed no remorse over his confession.

A chance remark about a unique Christmas gift may have led to the arrest of Graham by the FBI.

Neighbors told the FBI Friday, eight days after the Nov. 1 crash, that Graham told them he was heartbroken because he had hidden the gift, a jewelry-making tool, in her luggage rather than presenting it in person.

The FBI went into action as soon as it learned Graham had opened his mother's packed suitcases to insert the surprise gift.

It was announced in Chicago survivors of 13 passengers who died in the crash will be paid a total of $655,000 by Concinental Casualty Co. It was understood that the payments by Associated Aviation Underwriters of New York and Mutual Benefit Assn. of Omaha, which also sell insurance in coin-operated airport machines, would be considerably less.

Russian Exiles Try 'Saving' Vlasov

PARIS (AP)—A band of Russian exiles tried to "liberate" Alexander V. Vlasov, dismissed architect of Moscow, when he arrived here last night from America, but his companions and Paris police prevented it. The exiles declared Vlasov was being taken back to Russia against his will and tried to get a statement from him. But members of his group kept the crowd away.

Vlasov visited the United States as a member of a delegation of architects looking at American housing developments. While there he was advised that his government had dismissed him.

Tornado Alert Is Sounded For Eastern Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — The U. S. Weather Bureau today alerted eastern Ohio for possible scattered tornadoes this afternoon.

The rapidly approaching cold front from the west practically has eliminated the possibility of tornadoes west of Columbus, a bureau spokesman said.

Even if no tornadoes develop in the eastern half of the state, the official forecast indicated, that area can expect thunderstorms this afternoon. Some of them may be severe.

The cold front is expected to drop Ohio temperatures to between 15 and 20 degrees in the western half and to 20 to 25 degrees in the eastern half by Thursday morning.

Strong westerly winds are expected to bring snow flurries into the state with some heavy snow squalls in northern Ohio tonight.

Magician Killed During Performance

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Magician Ronald Frank was strangled to death today while performing at a social function in Clarendon Village.

As part of his act, Frank placed a rope around his neck, gave the ends to 12 men and told them to pull. They pulled, apparently before he was ready for them. He died before the startled crowd.

Game Killings Reported High In County Area

Despite heavy afternoon rains, more rabbits and pheasants were seen or killed on opening day of small game hunting season Tuesday than for several years here, according to a report by Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis.

Francis said that 73 hunters were checked and they reported seeing 240 pheasants and 171 rabbits. Kills were reported as: 14 pheasants and 71 rabbits.

"I have seen more hunters out on an opening day," the game protector remarked. 'But I suppose the bad weather kept a lot of them away."

There were only four violators brought in to Circleville Municipal Court on the opening day. Francis said this was the smallest number he had known of in quite some time adding that "I have seen times when we had 35."

* * *

VIOLATORS and their penalties are as follows:

Robert Sullivan, 26, of Columbus; $15 and costs for having more than the legal limit of rabbits (4) in his possession; affidavit signed by Francis.

Sylvester Brown, 28, of Columbus, and Glen D. McFarland, 20, of Circleville; each fined $15 and costs for failure to display a hunting license on the backs; affidavit signed by Francis.

Douglas Roberts, 25, of Columbus; $15 and costs for having more than the legal limit (4) of rabbits in his possession; affidavit signed by Arthur McCreadie.

Francis said that he and other game protectors would keep a close watch out for violators.

He Gets Fireplug All Chrome-Plated

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—This city now has one chrome-plated street fire hydrant.

It replaces one that was painted yellow, like all the others, in front of the La Jolla home of Dr. Edward Courtney, a dentist.

Dr. Courtney thought the yellow one was unsightly. He negotiated with the city water and fire departments to send the hydrant to the plating company.

The job cost him $200, plus a $22.50 city charge.

Cold War Situation Returns, U.S. Policymaker Contends

WASHINGTON (AP)—"The failure of the Geneva conference has brought the cold war back," a top-level administration leader says.

He said that "in the light of this, the administration is re-examining its programs, and is prepared to make any changes that are necessary."

The policymaker declining to be quoted by name, said that budget-balancing aims would be subordinated to "necessities" of the developing new situation.

He said that cuts in foreign aid spending are "not now contemplated. There may be some shifts, and changes in emphasis, in the foreign aid program, but there won't be much difference" this year's and next year's outlays.

"The administration's policies are flexible, and they will be shifted as needed," he added.

The administration leader nuqualifiedly termed "a failure" the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting ending today at Geneva.

* * *

HE SAID "the tense situation in the Middle East" is further concrete evidence that "the cold war is back."

What this will mean in terms of the administration's aim to balance the budget this year and keep it balanced is not yet clear, the official indicated.

In September, John B. Hollister, head of the International Cooperation Administration, which administers foreign aid, reported after a trip to Europe that the situation had improved so much there that some cutdown in foreign economic aid outlays could begin immediately, and be carried over into next year.

Now, it appeared from the administration policymaker's views based on Russia's intransigent attitude at Geneva and developments in the Middle East, any savings on economic aid may have to be spent on increased military assistance abroad.

Current programs for the year ending next June 30 contemplate spending of $1,750,000,000 for economic aid aboad and $2,150,000,000 for military aid.

The Defense Department has already indicated that defense outlays are on the way up.

Council's Meeting Short; Home Folks Begin To Wonder

Wives and mothers all over Circleville had a variety of questions to ask Tuesday night when city council's meeting lasted less than one hour.

Usually, a meeting of the lawmakers lasts from two to more than three hours. And the folks who wait for the councilmen and council-watchers to return home had become accustomed to the long wait.

"If council meeting is over already," one wife asked in a suspicious tone, "how come it usually takes so much longer? Where have you been on all those other evenings?"

"Home already!", another home-keeper gasped. "When I heard you at the door I thought the place was being held up!"

"If council can do it that way once," another wanted to know, "why can't they do it that fast all the time?"

For the answer to that one, and for the story on city council's deliberations Tuesday night, turn to the last of today's issue.

Prayer Said Like 'Breath Of Soul'

The university is observing a religious emphasis week.

Egypt Tightening Israeli Blockade

JERUSALEM (AP) — Egypt has closed in her blockade of Israel to within a mile and a half of the southern Negev port of Eilat.

All Israeli shipping to and from the east now is completely cut off. Air transit to the east also is blocked and the only air or sea-lane for commerce is across the Mediterranean to the west.

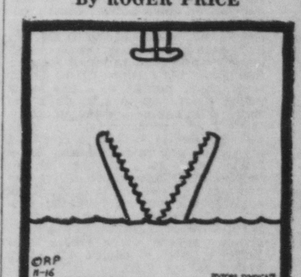

First news of the tightened blockade came yesterday when an Israeli military spokesman said an Israeli plane circling over Israeli territory at Eilat was fired upon by an Egyptian firgate anchored at Tabah—a tiny base along Egypt's Sinai coast.

"ALLIGATOR WAITING FOR PARACHUTE JUMPER"

Harold Burroughs of Detroit, Mich., thought up this idea and I'm dedicating it to my Cousin Stanley who used to be a Paratrooper. It took nerve for Stanley to join this Outfit because when he was young he suffered from Acrophobia, or a morbid fear of high places. Stanley used to get dizzy when his shoes had just been half-soled and he wouldn't get on a See-Saw unless he had a safety belt and a cardboard container. But he overcame his fear and in time he made 200 Parachute Jumps and 199 Landings. (There's an explanation for this but the Air Force has asked me to keep it quiet.) This just goes to show what perseverance, courage and self-control can do. Especially, when accompanied by a good boot in the pants from a first sergeant.

The bomb, hidden in Mrs. King's luggage, exploded high over Longmont, Colo., ripping to pieces the DC6B mainliner shortly after it had taken off from the Denver airport.

GUARDS PLACED Graham under extra security precautions in Denver County jail. He is held without bond. Warden Gordon Dolliver said an unidentified man threatened by telephone a mob would storm the jail to take Graham out.

From outward appearances, guards said, Graham showed no remorse over his confession.

A chance remark about a unique Christmas gift may have led to the arrest of Graham by the FBI.

Neighbors told the FBI Friday, eight days after the Nov. 1 crash, that Graham told them he was heartbroken because he had hidden the gift, a jewelry-making tool, in her luggage rather than presenting it in person.

The FBI went into action as soon as it learned Graham had opened his mother's packed suitcases to insert the surprise gift.

It was announced in Chicago survivors of 13 passengers who died in the crash will be paid a total of $655,000 by Concinental Casualty Co. It was understood that the payments by Associated Aviation Underwriters of New York and Mutual Benefit Assn. of Omaha, which also sell insurance in coin-operated airport machines, would be considerably less.

Tornado Alert Is Sounded For Eastern Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — The U. S. Weather Bureau today alerted eastern Ohio for possible scattered tornadoes this afternoon.

The rapidly approaching cold front from the west practically has eliminated the possibility of tornadoes west of Columbus, a bureau spokesman said.

Even if no tornadoes develop in the eastern half of the state, the official forecast indicated, that area can expect thunderstorms this afternoon. Some of them may be severe.

The cold front is expected to drop Ohio temperatures to between 15 and 20 degrees in the western half and to 20 to 25 degrees in the eastern half by Thursday morning.

Strong westerly winds are expected to bring snow flurries into the state with some heavy snow squalls in northern Ohio tonight.

Russian Exiles Try 'Saving' Vlasov

PARIS (AP)—A band of Russian exiles tried to "liberate" Alexander V. Vlasov, dismissed architect of Moscow, when he arrived here last night from America, but his companions and Paris police prevented it. The exiles declared Vlasov was being taken back to Russia against his will and tried to get a statement from him. But members of his group kept the crowd away.

Vlasov visited the United States as a member of a delegation of architects looking at American housing developments. While there he was advised that his government had dismissed him.

ROKs Eye A-Cannon

SEOUL (AP)—A reliable military source predicted today the South Korean army will be equipped with atomic cannon in case a shooting war is renewed. The source said ROK army officers are receiving training from U. S. experts.

Magician Killed During Performance

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Magician Ronald Frank was strangled to death today while performing at a social function in Clarendon Village.

As part of his act, Frank placed a rope around his neck, gave the ends to 12 men and told them to pull. They pulled, apparently before he was ready for them. He died before the startled crowd.

Game Killings Reported High In County Area

Despite heavy afternoon rains, more rabbits and pheasants were seen or killed on opening day of small game hunting season Tuesday than for several years here, according to a report by Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis.

Francis said that 73 hunters were checked and they reported seeing 240 pheasants and 171 rabbits. Kills were reported as: 14 pheasants and 71 rabbits.

"I have seen more hunters out on an opening day," the game protector remarked. 'But I suppose the bad weather kept a lot of them away."

There were only four violators brought in to Circleville Municipal Court on the opening day. Francis said this was the smallest number he had known of in quite some time adding that "I have seen times when we had 35."

* * *

VIOLATORS and their penalties are as follows:

Robert Sullivan, 26, of Columbus; $15 and costs for having more than the legal limit of rabbits (4) in his possession; affidavit signed by Francis.

Sylvester Brown, 28, of Columbus, and Glen D. McFarland, 20, of Circleville; each fined $15 and costs for failure to display a hunting license on the backs; affidavit signed by Francis.

Douglas Roberts, 25, of Columbus; $15 and costs for having more than the legal limit (4) of rabbits in his possession; affidavit signed by Arthur McCreadie.

Francis said that he and other game protectors would keep a close watch out for violators.

He Gets Fireplug All Chrome-Plated

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—This city now has one chrome-plated street fire hydrant.

It replaces one that was painted yellow, like all the others, in front of the La Jolla home of Dr. Edward Courtney, a dentist.

Dr. Courtney thought the yellow one was unsightly. He negotiated with the city water and fire departments to send the hydrant to the plating company.

The job cost him $200, plus a $22.50 city charge.

Cold War Situation Returns, U.S. Policymaker Contends

WASHINGTON (AP)—"The failure of the Geneva conference has brought the cold war back," a top-level administration leader says.

He said that "in the light of this, the administration is re-examining its programs, and is prepared to make any changes that are necessary."

The policymaker declining to be quoted by name, said that budget-balancing aims would be subordinated to "necessities" of the developing new situation.

He said that cuts in foreign aid spending are "not now contemplated. There may be some shifts, and changes in emphasis, in the foreign aid program, but there won't be much difference" this year's and next year's outlays.

"The administration's policies are flexible, and they will be shifted as needed," he added.

The administration leader nuqualifiedly termed "a failure" the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting ending today at Geneva.

* * *

HE SAID "the tense situation in the Middle East" is further concrete evidence that "the cold war is back."

What this will mean in terms of the administration's aim to balance the budget this year and keep it balanced is not yet clear, the official indicated.

In September, John B. Hollister, head of the International Cooperation Administration, which administers foreign aid, reported after a trip to Europe that the situation had improved so much there that some cutdown in foreign economic aid outlays could begin immediately, and be carried over into next year.

Now, it appeared from the administration policymaker's views based on Russia's intransigent attitude at Geneva and developments in the Middle East, any savings on economic aid may have to be spent on increased military assistance abroad.

Current programs for the year ending next June 30 contemplate spending of $1,750,000,000 for economic aid aboad and $2,150,000,000 for military aid.

The Defense Department has already indicated that defense outlays are on the way up.

Council's Meeting Short; Home Folks Begin To Wonder

Wives and mothers all over Circleville had a variety of questions to ask Tuesday night when city council's meeting lasted less than one hour.

Usually, a meeting of the lawmakers lasts from two to more than three hours. And the folks who wait for the councilmen and council-watchers to return home had become accustomed to the long wait.

"If council meeting is over already," one wife asked in a suspicious tone, "how come it usually takes so much longer? Where have you been on all those other evenings?"

"Home already!", another home-keeper gasped. "When I heard you at the door I thought the place was being held up!"

"If council can do it that way once," another wanted to know, "why can't they do it that fast all the time?"

For the answer to that one, and for the story on city council's deliberations Tuesday night, turn to the last of today's issue.

Prayer Said Like 'Breath Of Soul'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Prayer, says the Rev. Alexander O. Sigur, is like the breath of the soul.

"To stay alive spiritually, you must pray, you must breathe," the chaplain of the Roman Catholic student center in Southwestern Louisiana Institute today told University of Cincinnati students. "Prayer is not a palliative nor a prescription. It is a vital element in the life of the spirit."

The university is observing a religious emphasis week.

Egypt Tightening Israeli Blockade

JERUSALEM (AP) — Egypt has closed in her blockade of Israel to within a mile and a half of the southern Negev port of Eilat.

All Israeli shipping to and from the east now is completely cut off. Air transit to the east also is blocked and the only air or sealane for commerce is across the Mediterranean to the west.

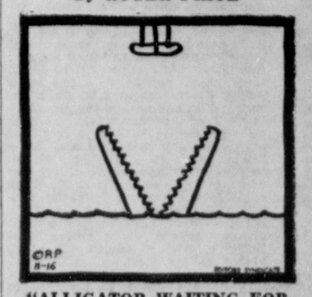

First news of the tightened blockade came yesterday when an Israeli military spokesman said an Israeli plane circling over Israeli territory at Eilat was fired upon by an Egyptian firgate anchored at Tabah—a tiny base along Egypt's Sinai coast.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"ALLIGATOR WAITING FOR PARACHUTE JUMPER"

Harold Burroughs of Detroit, Mich., thought up this idea and I'm dedicating it to my Cousin Stanley who used to be a Paratrooper. It took nerve for Stanley to join this Outfit because when he was young he suffered from Acrophobia, or a morbid fear of high places. Stanley used to get dizzy when his shoes had just been half-soled and he wouldn't get on a See-Saw unless he had a safety belt and a cardboard container. But he overcame his fear and in time he made 200 Parachute Jumps and 199 Landings. (There's an explanation for this but the Air Force has asked me to keep it quiet.) This just goes to show what perseverance, courage and self-control can do. Especially, when accompanied by a good boot in the pants from a first sergeant.

Wholesale Food Prices Start Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in seven weeks there was a slight rise this week in wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index.

The index rose to $6.04 from $6.00 a week ago, which was the lowest level touched since June 20, 1950. A year ago the index stood at $6.88.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Dulles Accused Soviet Boss Of Evading Issue

Molotov Said Ordered To Avoid Agreement On German Unification

GENEVA (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the final session of the Geneva conference today that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin apparently had sent Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov here "with orders no to discuss seriously" the reunification of Germany.

Dulles blamed Soviet resistance to reuniting Germany through free elections on fear that such an action would threaten Moscow's hold on the Communist satellite countries of Eastern Europe.

Dulles spoke after the Big Four agreed without argument to break up the present conference without any specific time or place for another meeting.

They did this by accepting a communique which they agreed to issue later today. It was a very brief document registering by implication the total failure of the meeting to provide solutions or make substantial pogress on any of the great East-West issues and particularly on Germany.

Dulles said he thought that the Geneva meeting had not been "wholly barren." He expressed hope for better results in the future, saying that after long years in international diplomacy he is not "easily discouraged."

* * *

"THE GOVERNMENT and people of the United States," Dulles told Molotov, "want to develop better relations with the Soviet nation.

"Our hope for the future derives from our belief that the Soviet government will sooner or later come to see that the advantage to it in better relations with the Western powers is far beter than local and passing advantages which it could gain at the price of forfeiting the good relations which at the summit conference the Soviet rulers seemed to want."

Dulles covered the discussions here point by point with summarizing comments beginning with the problems of German unification and European security.

He said the Russian refusal "even to contemplate free elections in East Germany" serves to highlight "as no words could the situation throughout Eastern Europe."

"If the so-called German Democratic republic," he said, "cannot stand the test of a peoples' choice, no more can the regimes imposed on the peoples of Eastern Europe."

Dulles recalled that at the summit meeting last July Bulganin had agreed with President Eisenhower and other Western leaders to deal with the German problem in terms of reunification and free elections. He added:

"The government and people of the United States will find it hard to understand why in the light of this, Chairman Bulganin sent to this foreign ministers conference a delegation which apparently was under orders not to discuss seriously the matter of German reunification."

Former Sultan Returning To His Old Throne

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Once-exiled Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef returned to his Moroccan homeland today to receive a triumphant welcome.

The 41-year-old Sultan came flying back with the avowed purpose of creating a constitutional monarchy and getting a large measure of home rule in negotiations with the French government which deposed him two years ago for his nationalism.

The Sultan was escorted by 12 French fighter planes.

The airport was decorated with a huge portrait of the Sultan inscribed with words from the Koran: "Allah will give you a gift with which you will be satisfied."

The crowd at the airport was restricted to about 600 French and Moroccan dignitaries. Just outside the gates another 5,000 watched the Sultan arrive.

Exiled two years ago, he was brought back as a result of nationalist pressure, including terrorist bombings and shootings and guerrilla warfare.

Some of the Sultan's extreme nationalists have become disillusioned with him because of his stress upon French - Moroccan friendship and "interdependence" rather than independence.

The 41-year-old Sultan expressed satisfaction with the way French officials had understood his views of Moroccan problems.

Junior Is Target Of Cafe Ad Drive

CLEVELAND (AP) — Junior, his appetite and his "eating out" manners soon will be the target of a $10 million advertising campaign by the restaurant industry.

The campaign, designed to convince parents that restaurants really welcome small fry patrons, was announced here last night by Marion W. Isbell of Chicago, president of the National Restaurant Assn., who said many parents stay away from restaurants because they fear their children won't behave. He thinks the fears are unfounded.

Rescue Is Their Job

By DAVID A. HELLER
Central Press Association Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Not long ago, hard-bitten, seafaring men all over the globe were shocked by an almost unheard-of incident. Two New York seamen issued a series of fake distress calls on a short wave radio.

Scores of Coast Guardsmen and private persons risked their lives, and the government spent a small fortune in a futile attempt to rescue 21 persons aboard a non-existent vessel.

The radio messages were alarming and urgent. Twenty-one anglers aboard The Blue Star, a fishing craft, faced almost certain death unless help came at once, the SOS declared.

The false alarm promptly brought one of the most colorful agencies of our government, the Coast Guard Search and Rescue service, into action.

Ships, planes and helicopters scoured the Atlantic coast searching for a trace of The Blue Star. An SOS at sea is a serious matter. During a 24-hour period Coast Guard search and rescue teams swept an estimated 4,000 square miles of ocean in a dangerous operation that cost more than $50,000.

* * *

"CRYING WOLF" at sea is a dangerous pastime, as the two fakers found out when they promptly landed behind bars when their hoax was discovered.

Some seafaring men, whose lives depend on the search and rescue service, openly voiced the opinion that the key to their cell should be thrown into Davy Jones' locker.

Have you ever wondered what would happen if the airplane in which you were riding should crash into a shark-infested sea? Or if your ship should catch afire miles from land?

When disaster strikes—a flood in the Missouri valley, a plane crash in dangerous swamps, a ship lost at sea—we take rescue for granted.

But the problems involved in setting search and rescue forces in motion and the effort required in the efficient operation that we so easily take for granted are enormous. Search and rescue is dramatic, dangerous work.

* * *

THE COAST GUARD is the agency most directly concerned with search and rescue. When disaster occurs, it most likely will be intrepid Coast Guardsmen who will answer the call for help.

Take a couple recent examples, when the tankers SS Fort Mercer and SS Pendleton broke in two in 70-knot winds and 60-foot-high seas off the coast of Cape Cod.

With each tanker broken in two, 40 miles apart, four ship hulks, each with survivors aboard, were left adrift. The desperate situation called for the utmost from the Coast Guard. All types of rescue equipment were used: cutters, airplanes, motor lifeboats, rubber life crafts, nets and lifelines.

Pitting skill and knowledge against the raging elements in what was in reality four separate rescue operations, the Coast Guard rescued 70 survivors. Only 14 men were lost, a near miracle.

* * *

HERE'S HOW a rescue operation works:

Suppose you have been shipwrecked. When the distress signal is received by the Rescue Co-ordination center, a base of operations for an entire Coast Guard district, signals are sent immediately to all stations, boats and planes in the crash area. At once a highly organized and efficient traffic control system goes into effect. A direct, private telephone wire connects all Coast Guard and rescue stations along the Atlantic seaboard. Search and rescue operations can be in motion within 20 seconds after your distress call is received.

A distress signal does not always come from the distressed. Often the search and rescue service acts on its own when there is the suspicion of disaster. When an airplane is one hour overdue, a communications search is made to determine where the craft last was seen or heard from. Within another half-hour, a search force is out.

Rescuing victims of surface craft disasters is a little different. The Area Ship Pilot (New York on the Atlantic, San Francisco on the Pacific) knows the exact position of all sea traffic each day at noon. On the basis of course and speed, the position of any ship can be determined and rescue forces sent out to search the specific locale of the disaster.

One thing is certain—wherever a disaster occurs, the Coast Guard stands ready and willing to help.

Rescue is their job!

ROBERT W. ROSS, 23, gave himself up to a patrolman-friend and confessed that he was the one who had tried to hold up a branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company in New York. Ross, a former Army lieutenant who lost half his left arm in Germany saving the life of a fellow-soldier, was held in $2,500 bond pending jury action.

Cobb Hopes He's Worth $3 Million

ORONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Ty Cobb, 68-year-old Georgia peach of baseball fame, "hopes" he is worth nearly $3 million.

Cobb is being sued for $50,000 damages by Elbert D. Felts who charges Ty assaulted him.

P. M. Barceloux, Felts' attorney, asked Cobb if it is true that his stocks were worth $2,612,631.

"I hope it is," replied Cobb.

As other assets he listed a $50,000 home in Atherton, Calif.; a $25,000 home in Glenbrook, Nev.; bank accounts totaling $135,000 in Reno and Twin Falls, Idaho, and an $85,000 warehouse in Twin Falls.

County Fair Race Fund Ruling Cited

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill ruled today that part of the state tax collected from county fair race tracks should go to agricultural societies operating the fairs.

The ruling, to the state auditor, said the distribution should be made under a law effective last July.

The opinion added that the statute would be effective as an appropriation act during the current two-year period for state operations, but that further legislative action would be needed to authorize distributions thereafter.

Bids Opened On Span To Begin Big Job

on the approaches at Huston St., W. Main St. and Island Road, in addition to the adjustment of some of the utilities owned by the city.

The necessary action on the city's party was taken at a special council meeting here on November 8.

The bypass will have structures over both the Pennsylvania and C & O railroads, as well as three large stream crossings.

* * *

LOCAL interest is especially centered on plans for an interchange at the point where the new highway will be carried over Route 22 immediately west of the city. (See drawing)

To carry the heavy volume of traffic that is anticipated, and to accommodate the large number of motorists who will want to enter or leave the relocated Route 23, the interchange incorporates the latest highway construction ideas in its specifications and traffic pattern.

The two 24-foot pavements, separated by a 40-foot median, will cross over Route 22 on separate bridges. Ramps and deceleration lanes — characteristic of "cloverleaf" planning—will handle all the turning movements with ease and safety, the highways department said.

Since the volume of traffic on Island Road is also quite heavy, and includes a large percentage of trucks, an overpass will be built so that Island Road traffic will pass over the new highway.

Junctions to bring the bypass back to the existing Route 23 north and south of Circleville will have safety features such as protected "islands", and turning lanes.

Officials of the highways department pointed out that conflict with local traffic will be kept to a minimum by declaring the bypass route a limited access highway.

All contracts for the project are scheduled for completion by 1957.

* * *

PLAYING a leading role as the big job moves ahead will be George W. Alsdorf, division engineer for the department's Division 6, with offices at Delaware.

Plans were prepared for the state by the consulting firm of Elmer S. Barrett Associates, of Chillicothe. The bypass contract, when completed, will be the last link in providing a four-lane pavement across Pickaway County.

The contract for work north of South Bloomfield is expected to be completed next Spring, while the two contracts for work south of Circleville are moving along at steady pace, highway officials said.

Circleville's bypass will be part of a modern highway which will be able to accommodate four-lane traffic virtually all the way from Delaware—through Columbus, Circleville, Chillicothe and Waverly—to Portsmouth.

New Witness Scheduled In Trial Of Reds

CLEVELAND (AP) — The second government witness was expected to be called today in the trial of 11 alleged Ohio Communist Party leaders charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Ending four days of testimony yesterday, William Garfield Cummings, 44, of Toledo testified he had heard only one of the defendants urge force and violence to achieve Communist aims.

Cummings, who said he posed six years as a Communist at the request of the FBI, identified the defendant as Joseph Brandt, 45, who fought with the Loyalists in the Spanish Civil War and with the American Army in World War II.

He testified that Brandt called for overthrow of the "bloody capitalistic party" at a Communist Party school in Toledo in 1948.

Under cross-examination by one of eight defense attorneys, Cummings said the Communists exploited the illness of his two sons in 1948 to raise funds "for the defense of Communist leaders indicted in New York."

The attorney, Fred H. Mandel, challenged Cummings' statement that he had "no use for Communists and never did."

"What about when your children were sick?" Mandel asked.

The witness replied that when his two sons were ill with polio the Communists used the children's illness to raise more than $300 and sent it to New York.

"I got exactly $22," he said.

1.12 Inch Rainfall Soaks Circleville

Rainfall figures for November in this locality were jolted back into a moist surplus by Tuesday's downpour.

More than an inch of rain — 12 hundredths more — came just in time to pull precipitation figures out of a small deficit. In the preceding 24-hour period, local rainfall had dropped .08 inch below the normal for that date.

It was the first deficit to show in the November readings. And Tuesday's rain resulted in a fat surplus of .94 inch above the normal again, so far this month. It also caused the Scioto River at Circleville to rise more than a half-foot, to its present stage of 2.22 feet.

Portuguese-speaking Brazil is the largest Latin American country, larger in area than continental United States.

Motorist Offers Ride To Officer, Ends Up In Jail

Thomas Buzzard, 35, of Ashville Route 2, who stopped to offer Circleville Policeman Bob Temple a ride because he reportedly thought the officer was a hitch-hiker, was found guilty of drunk driving by Municipal Judge Sterling Lamb.

Buzzard was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three consecutive days in jail and had his driving rights suspended for six months. Temple, who had been guarding a school zone crossing at N. Court and High Streets at the time of the incident, politely turned down Buzzard's offer of a ride. Instead, Temple arrested him.

Other city court cases included the following:

John Teets, 43, of Clarksburg; $50 and costs plus two days in jail for fictitious plates and $10 and costs for no operator's license; arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl White.

Thomas Smith, 29, of Laurelville; $10 and costs for passing without assured clear distance; arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Dulles Accused Soviet Boss Of Evading Issue

Molotov Said Ordered To Avoid Agreement On German Unification

GENEVA (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told the final session of the Geneva conference today that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin apparently had sent Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov here "with orders no to discuss seriously" the reunification of Germany.

Dulles blamed Soviet resistance to reuniting Germany through free elections on fear that such an action would threaten Moscow's hold on the Communist satellite countries of Eastern Europe.

Dulles spoke after the Big Four agreed without argument to break up the present conference without any specific time or place for another meeting.

They did this by accepting a communique which they agreed to issue later today. It was a very brief document registering by implication the total failure of the meeting to provide solutions or make substantial pogress on any of the great East-West issues and particularly on Germany.

Dulles said he thought that the Geneva meeting had not been "wholly barren." He expressed hope for better results in the future, saying that after long years in international diplomacy he is not "easily discouraged."

* * *

"THE GOVERNMENT and people of the United States," Dulles told Molotov, "want to develop better relations with the Soviet nation.

"Our hope for the future derives from our belief that the Soviet government will sooner or later come to see that the advantage to it in better relations with the Western powers is far beter than local and passing advantages which it could gain at the price of forfeiting the good relations which at the summit conference the Soviet rulers seemed to want."

Dulles covered the discussions here point by point with summarizing comments beginning with the problems of German unification and European security.

He said the Russian refusal "even to contemplate free elections in East Germany" serves to highlight "as no words could the situation throughout Eastern Europe."

"If the so-called German Democratic republic," he said, "cannot stand the test of a peoples' choice, no more can the regimes imposed on the peoples of Eastern Europe."

Dulles recalled that at the summit meeting last July Bulganin had agreed with President Eisenhower and other Western leaders to deal with the German problem in terms of reunification and free elections. He added:

"The government and people of the United States will find it hard to understand why in the light of this, Chairman Bulganin sent to this foreign ministers conference a delegation which apparently was under orders not to discuss seriously the matter of German reunification."

Former Sultan Returning To His Old Throne

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Once-exiled Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef returned to his Moroccan homeland today to receive a triumphant welcome.

The 41-year-old Sultan came flying back with the avowed purpose of creating a constitutional monarchy and getting a large measure of home rule in negotiations with the French government which deposed him two years ago for his nationalism.

The Sultan was escorted by 12 French fighter planes.

The airport was decorated with a huge portrait of the Sultan inscribed with words from the Koran: "Allah will give you a gift with which you will be satisfied."

The crowd at the airport was restricted to about 600 French and Moroccan dignitaries. Just outside the gates another 5,000 watched the Sultan arrive.

Exiled two years ago, he was brought back as a result of nationalist pressure, including terrorist bombings and shootings and guerrilla warfare.

Some of the Sultan's extreme nationalists have become disillusioned with him because of his stress upon French - Moroccan friendship and "interdependence" rather than independence.

The 41-year-old Sultan expressed satisfaction with the way French officials had understood his views of Moroccan problems.

Junior Is Target Of Cafe Ad Drive

CLEVELAND (AP) — Junior, his appetite and his "eating out" manners soon will be the target of a $10 million advertising campaign by the restaurant industry.

The campaign, designed to convince parents that restaurants really welcome small fry patrons, was announced here last night by Marion W. Isbell of Chicago, president of the National Restaurant Assn., who said many parents stay away from restaurants because they fear their children won't behave. He thinks the fears are unfounded.

Rescue Is Their Job

By DAVID A. HELLER
Central Press Association Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Not long ago, hard-bitten, seafaring men all over the globe were shocked by an almost unheard-of incident. Two New York seamen issued a series of fake distress calls on a short wave radio.

Scores of Coast Guardsmen and private persons risked their lives, and the government spent a small fortune in a futile attempt to rescue 21 persons aboard a non-existent vessel.

The radio messages were alarming and urgent. Twenty-one anglers aboard The Blue Star, a fishing craft, faced almost certain death unless help came at once, the SOS declared.

The false alarm promptly brought one of the most colorful agencies of our government, the Coast Guard Search and Rescue service, into action.

Ships, planes and helicopters scoured the Atlantic coast searching for a trace of The Blue Star. An SOS at sea is a serious matter. During a 24-hour period Coast Guard search and rescue teams swept an estimated 4,000 square miles of ocean in a dangerous operation that cost more than $50,000.

* * *

"CRYING WOLF" at sea is a dangerous pastime, as the two fakers found out when they promptly landed behind bars when their hoax was discovered.

Some seafaring men, whose lives depend on the search and rescue service, openly voiced the opinion that the key to their cell should be thrown into Davy Jones' locker.

Have you ever wondered what would happen if the airplane in which you were riding should crash into a shark-infested sea? Or if your ship should catch afire miles from land?

When disaster strikes—a flood in the Missouri valley, a plane crash in dangerous swamps, a ship lost at sea—we take rescue for granted.

But the problems involved in setting search and rescue forces in motion and the effort required in the efficient operation that we so easily take for granted are enormous. Search and rescue is dramatic, dangerous work.

* * *

THE COAST GUARD is the agency most directly concerned with search and rescue. When disaster occurs, it most likely will be intrepid Coast Guardsmen who will answer the call for help.

Take a couple recent examples, when the tankers SS Fort Mercer and SS Pendleton broke in two in 70-knot winds and 60-foot-high seas off the coast of Cape Cod.

With each tanker broken in two, 40 miles apart, four ship hulks, each with survivors aboard, were left adrift. The desperate situation called for the utmost from the Coast Guard. All types of rescue equipment were used: cutters, airplanes, motor lifeboats, rubber life crafts, nets and lifelines.

Pitting skill and knowledge against the raging elements in what was in reality four separate rescue operations, the Coast Guard rescued 70 survivors. Only 14 men were lost, a near miracle.

* * *

HERE'S HOW a rescue operation works:

Suppose you have been shipwrecked. When the distress signal is received by the Rescue Co-ordination center, a base of operations for an entire Coast Guard district, signals are sent immediately to all stations, boats and planes in the crash area. At once a highly organized and efficient traffic control system goes into effect. A direct, private telephone wire connects all Coast Guard and rescue stations along the Atlantic seaboard. Search and rescue operations can be in motion within 20 seconds after your distress call is received.

A distress signal does not always come from the distressed. Often the search and rescue service acts on its own when there is the suspicion of disaster. When an airplane is one hour overdue, a communications search is made to determine where the craft last was seen or heard from. Within another half-hour, a search force is out.

Rescuing victims of surface craft disasters is a little different. The Area Ship Pilot (New York on the Atlantic, San Francisco on the Pacific) knows the exact position of all sea traffic each day at noon. On the basis of course and speed, the position of any ship can be determined and rescue forces sent out to search the specific locale of the disaster.

One thing is certain—wherever a disaster occurs, the Coast Guard stands ready and willing to help.

Rescue is their job!

ROBERT W. ROSS, 23, gave himself up to a patrolman-friend and confessed that he was the one who had tried to hold up a branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company in New York. Ross, a former Army lieutenant who lost half his left arm in Germany saving the life of a fellow-soldier, was held in $2,500 bond pending jury action.

Cobb Hopes He's Worth $3 Million

ORONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Ty Cobb, 68-year-old Georgia peach of baseball fame, "hopes" he is worth nearly $3 million.

Cobb is being sued for $50,000 damages by Elbert D. Felts who charges Ty assaulted him.

P. M. Barceloux, Felts' attorney, asked Cobb if it is true that his stocks were worth $2,612,631.

"I hope it is," replied Cobb.

As other assets he listed a $50,000 home in Atherton, Calif.; a $25,000 home in Glenbrook, Nev.; bank accounts totaling $135,000 in Reno and Twin Falls, Idaho, and an $85,000 warehouse in Twin Falls.

County Fair Race Fund Ruling Cited

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill ruled today that part of the state tax collected from county fair race tracks should go to agricultural societies operating the fairs.

The ruling, to the state auditor, said the distribution should be made under a law effective last July.

The opinion added that the statute would be effective as an appropriation act during the current two-year period for state operations, but that further legislative action would be needed to authorize distributions thereafter.

on the approaches at Huston St., W. Main St. and Island Road, in addition to the adjustment of some of the utilities owned by the city.

The necessary action on the city's party was taken at a special council meeting here on November 8.

The bypass will have structures over both the Pennsylvania and C & O railroads, as well as three large stream crossings.

* * *

LOCAL interest is especially centered on plans for an interchange at the point where the new highway will be carried over Route 22 immediately west of the city. (See drawing)

To carry the heavy volume of traffic that is anticipated, and to accommodate the large number of motorists who will want to enter or leave the relocated Route 23, the interchange incorporates the latest highway construction ideas in its specifications and traffic pattern.

The two 24-foot pavements, separated by a 40-foot median, will cross over Route 22 on separate bridges. Ramps and deceleration lanes — characteristic of "cloverleaf" planning—will handle all the turning movements with ease and safety, the highways department said.

Since the volume of traffic on Island Road is also quite heavy, and includes a large percentage of trucks, an overpass will be built so that Island Road traffic will pass over the new highway.

Junctions to bring the bypass back to the existing Route 23 north and south of Circleville will have safety features such as "protected "islands", and turning lanes.

Officials of the highways department pointed out that conflict with local traffic will be kept to a minimum by declaring the bypass route a limited access highway.

All contracts for the project are scheduled for completion by 1957.

New Witness Scheduled In Trial Of Reds

CLEVELAND (AP) — The second government witness was expected to be called today in the trial of 11 alleged Ohio Communist Party leaders charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Ending four days of testimony yesterday, William Garfield Cummings, 44, of Toledo testified he had heard only one of the defendants urge force and violence to achieve Communist aims.

Cummings, who said he posed six years as a Communist at the request of the FBI, identified the defendant as Joseph Brandt, 45, who fought with the Loyalists in the Spanish Civil War and with the American Army in World War II.

He testified that Brandt called for overthrow of the "bloody capitalistic party" at a Communist Party school in Toledo in 1948.

Under cross-examination by one of eight defense attorneys, Cummings said the Communists exploited the illness of his two sons in 1948 to raise funds "for the defense of Communist leaders indicted in New York."

The attorney, Fred H. Mandel, challenged Cummings' statement that he had "no use for Communists and never did."

"What about when your children were sick?" Mandel asked.

The witness replied that when his two sons were ill with polio the Communists used the children's illness to raise more than $300 and sent it to New York.

"I got exactly $22," he said.

1.12 Inch Rainfall Soaks Circleville

Rainfall figures for November in this locality were jolted back into a moist surplus by Tuesday's downpour.

More than an inch of rain — 12 hundredths more — came just in time to pull precipitation figures out of a small deficit. In the preceding 24-hour period, local rainfall had dropped .08 inch below the normal for that date.

It was the first deficit to show in the November readings. And Tuesday's rain resulted in a fat surplus of .94 inch above the normal again, so far this month. It also caused the Scioto River at Circleville to rise more than a half-foot, to its present stage of 2.22 feet.

Portuguese-speaking Brazil is the largest Latin American country, larger in area than continental United States.

Motorist Offers Ride To Officer, Ends Up In Jail

Thomas Buzzard, 35, of Ashville Route 2, who stopped to offer Circleville Policeman Bob Temple a ride because he reportedly thought the officer was a hitch-hiker, was found guilty of drunk driving by Municipal Judge Sterling Lamb.

Buzzard was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three consecutive days in jail and had his driving rights suspended for six months. Temple, who had been guarding a school zone crossing at N. Court and High Streets at the time of the incident, politely turned down Buzzard's offer of a ride. Instead, Temple arrested him.

Other city court cases included the following:

John Teets, 43, of Clarksburg; $50 and costs plus two days in jail for fictitious plates and $10 and costs for no operator's license; arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl White.

Thomas Smith, 29, of Laurelville; $10 and costs for passing without assured clear distance; arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

TV-Radio Time For Dulles Asked

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The White House announced today it has requested radio and television time for Secretary of State Dulles to report to the American people on the Geneva conference after his talks here with President Eisenhower Thursday and Friday.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he expects Dulles to deliver his report on the new deadlock between East and West on Friday night from Washington.

The announcement came as President Eisenhower, kept indoors by cold and rain, dictated letters and read at his country home.

RURAL RAIL FENCE VANISHING

Once Common Part of American Scene Is Disappearing

A serviceman and his girl friend look over a rail fence in the New Salem State park near Petersburg, Ill. That's the reconstructed Rutledge tavern in background. It was owned in Abe Lincoln's day by Ann Rutledge's father.

GHOST FENCES

Vanishing borders, reared by man
To mark the limits in a borderless land;
On prairies where wild flowers grew

Who split the rails and made the laws.—A.B.S.

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Association Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The few yards of rail fence which may provide the satisfying climax of an autumn excursion into the countryside or the finishing touch to a suburbanite's country place is the rapidly vanishing remnant of what once was the most common aspect of the American rural scene and the basis for a huge industry of the time.

In southern Illinois alone, which gave the nation Abraham Lincoln as "the railsplitter," less than two miles of authentic zig-zag rail fencing exists today, according to the estimates of the man who probably is the greatest expert in the country on the subject, John W. Allen, history curator at Southern Illinois university.

The midwest had no monopoly on this type of fence which the pioneer and early farmers found the least expensive and most available enclosure until, as everyone knows, the rail fence network spread everywhere east of the Mississippi, and particularly in New England where some of the best specimens remain today.

However, it was in what was to become "the Lincoln country" that the rails really flourished. At their zenith during the sunrise years of the Nineteenth Century, Professor Allen calculates that there were enough rails in the fencing of downstate Illinois to stretch twice around the earth at the equator if laid end to end.

This is based on the arithmetic that it took about seven thousand rails for each mile of good fence, and farmers fell into the custom of putting rails around each square mile and then further sub-dividing into 80-acre fields.

* * *

EACH HOG LOT, pig pen, calf lot, barnyard, dooryard, garden, truck patch and cemetery was entitled to its own line of fencing. For each square mile there were about eight miles of rail fence. An estimate of 50,000 miles of such fence in the Illinois of Lincoln's time seems conservative.

Maintaining the replacements needed for nearly a half billion rails in the Illinois counties clustered north of the Ohio river created a large industry all its own. They decayed rapidly because of their unfinished and rough hewn surfaces, else every Illinois man, woman and child today would have an inheritance of at least 300 rails.

Professor Allen figures that there were enough board feet in these rails to build 125,000 modern five-room houses, including clapboards for the roofs. They frequently were laid crosswise on roads in an effort to pull early Illinois out of the mud, and once there were enough rails in the area to have "corduroyed" 16,000 miles of roadway.

A good railsplitter like Abe Lincoln could whack out 175 rails a day, and the young farmers of the era pplied themselves manfully to the task. It was hard work but also sport at the county fairs, and there was a champion for every locality.

The original fences are almost all gone, but they left their imprint on the language, Professor Allen finds. It still is common to speak of a congressman returning from Washington to "mend his fences" with his constituency.

* * *

THE POLITICIAN was called "a fence straddler"; was told to "get down off the fence," and if he didn't satisfy his critics, he "left a gap down," or didn't "keep his fence rows clean." Some were "fenced in" by opponents, or "got caught in the crotch of the fence."

Professor Allen also traces such expressions as "slim as a rail," "long as a rail," "crooked as a fence worm" and "spite fence" straight to the heyday of rail fences.

Rail fences were invented when no one worried about conservation, but with their passing goes one of the best of all natural covers for all kinds of wildlife, to the mounting concern of conservationists.

The few remaining rail fences are along nearly abandoned country roads, and are harder to find than covered bridges which now enjoy a sort of esthetic protection in contrast with the often casually regarded but more rare zig-zags of mouldering rails lying low in the tangled undergrowth.

Others survive for ornament, but rails are so hard to replace these days that even these are disappearing.

Optimistic Video Prophets See Transocean TV Coming

NEW YORK (AP)—The optimistic prophets of television frequently talk of regular transoceanic TV as an inevitable innovation of the future. Doubtless it will happen for no technical problem seems insurmountable these days.

Viewers of "Wide Wide World" (NBC-TV) had a brief glimpse of live transoceanic television last Sunday when a pickup from Havana was technically successful on American TV screens. An airplane flying in horizontal figure-eights more than two miles aloft served as the relay station which bridged the 230 miles of water between the Florida mainland and Cuba.

It was the first live video link from Cuba into the United States—but not from this country to Cuba. The Cuban station CMQ brought its viewers the World Series this year and last year by the same method.

The images relayed by airplane on "Wide Wide World" were not as perfect as the usual TV picture.

When transoceanic television becomes a reality, it's obvious that live TV techniques will have to demonstrate their superiority over film. Once the novelty of the event had worn off, television would have to show the public that cameras on the scene of an event in Europe—for example—convey an immediacy and excitement that is lost on film. Otherwise the present method is satisfactory: Film it and rush it on a plane and let America see it 24 hours later.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court angered a lot of Southerners when it ordered an end to segregation in public schools. The decision overturned an opposite ruling on segregation laid down by the court 59 years ago.

A special Virginia commission, trying to find a way to get around the new ruling, expressed indignation that the "law of the land is whatever the court may determine it to be by the process of judicial legislation."

But this commission, called the Gray Commission, must have known this wasn't the first time the court has done an about-face on a decision handed down by the justices either long ago or in the recent past.

Research at the Library of Congress shows the court has reversed itself 65 times in American history: 29 times between 1789 and 1932 and 36 times since then.

The court in 1896 said it was constitutional for a state to pass laws segregating Negroes from whites (as in railroad trains) if the facilities given Negroes were equal to those of the whites.

This was the famous "separate but equal" doctrine which no subsequent court, until 1954, knocked down although justices in the meantime chipped away at it.

Then on May 17, 1954, the present court wiped out the doctrine by ruling that segregation in public schools was unconstitutional.

Since times change (and justices are a product of their times and environment) it is not unusual, as history shows, that justices of a later day find a meaning in the Constitution contrary to that of their predecessors on the bench.

Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney, whose opinion against freedom for the Negro slave, Dred Scott, was one of the sparks of the Civil War, once spoke of the problems of Supreme Court justices:

"Each public official who takes an oath to support the Constitution swears to support it as he understands it, and not as it is understood by others."

In that particular decision, which said Negroes were not citizens, Taney's court suffered a terrific reversal, not by a subsequent court, but by Congress and the people with the passage of the 14th Amendment.

Do You Know What It Takes To Keep Your Farm Operating Profitably?

Sure, we know you have a long list of items which keep your farm shipshape and in profitable operating condition — a mental check-list of things you do and know which keep things humming.

Cooperation and Service of Your Local Implement Dealers

We hope you won't take offense if we state that we are extremely proud of the part we play in getting each season's crops out of the field and into your bank account.

Between us, we have made an investment capable of taking care of any service needs and employ trained mechanics to insure you the best possible service quickly and when you need it.

No matter what make of tractor or farm equipment you operate, Pickaway County Implement Dealers are tooled and trained to make repairs in the least possible time.

Our investment in modern tools and methods protects your valuable crop investment. There is no need to travel many miles and waste valuable time when Pickaway County Dealers stand equipped to service your needs.

Why It Is Profitable To Deal With Pickaway County Implement Dealers

ASSURANCE OF SATISFACTION
Being a part of this farming community, we endeavor to know as much as possible about your needs, your interests and your wants before we attempt to sell you some machinery. A sale is good for us only when it is good for you.

MORE THAN "JUST A DEAL"
We are your neighbors, and strive therefore to value your continued friendship above that of the mere dollar.

AUTHORIZED DEALERS
Each of us is an authorized dealer. This means we put our reputation on everything we sell. Remembering that today's transaction is tomorrow's reputation, we must give the top in service and stand behind the "deal" — unlike unauthorized dealers who sell, but give no promise of satisfaction.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT
We, as local dealers, support the community which serves you, the farmer. Schools, churches, the hospital — we give to them all. This helps to make a stronger community for all of us. But our support could not be maintained if the farmer did not support us.

WE ARE HERE
Why buy out of town, when your service, your guarantees, your future prosperity are at home?

A special Virginia commission, trying to find a way to get around the new ruling, expressed indignation that the "law of the land is whatever the court may determine it to be by the process of judicial legislation."

But this commission, called the Gray Commission, must have known this wasn't the first time the court has done an about-face on a decision handed down by the justices either long ago or in the recent past.

Research at the Library of Congress shows the court has reversed itself 65 times in American history: 29 times between 1789 and 1932 and 36 times since then.

The court in 1896 said it was constitutional for a state to pass laws segregating Negroes from whites (as in railroad trains) if the facilities given Negroes were equal to those of the whites.

This was the famous "separate but equal" doctrine which no subsequent court, until 1954, knocked down although justices in the meantime chipped away at it.

Then on May 17, 1954, the present court wiped out the doctrine by ruling that segregation in public schools was unconstitutional.

Since times change (and justices are a product of their times and environment) it is not unusual, as history shows, that justices of a later day find a meaning in the Constitution contrary to that of their predecessors on the bench.

Chief Justice Roger Brooke Taney, whose opinion against freedom for the Negro slave, Dred Scott, was one of the sparks of the Civil War, once spoke of the problems of Supreme Court justices:

"Each public official who takes an oath to support the Constitution swears to support it as he understands it, and not as it is understood by others."

In that particular decision, which said Negroes were not citizens, Taney's court suffered a terrific reversal, not by a subsequent court, but by Congress and the people with the passage of the 14th Amendment.

Dentists Elect

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. V. L. Steffel, Columbus dentist, takes over as president of the Ohio State Dental Assn. today, succeeding Dr. Herbert J. Hoppe of Cleveland.

AWAITING ACTION on his confession of a murder committed 28 years ago, Oda Earl Joslin (left), in custody in Los Angeles, is visited by his wife Leona (next to him) and his mother and father. He may be tried as an adult or as a juvenile. Joslin said he deliberately killed Howard Truman, 13, a playmate, in 1927, but escaped prosecution by claiming a .22 caliber rifle was discharged accidentally. (International Soundphoto)

Letter Returned; Sent Little Late

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Postmaster Donald R. Biron didn't have to think long before he marked an envelope "addressee deceased" and returned the letter to a woman in Smith River, Calif. She had addressed the letter to "Oliver W. Holmes, Holmesdale Rd., Pittsfield, Mass." Holmes was a 19th Century author and father of the late Chief Justice Holmes. He had a summer home in Pittsfield.

Added Welfare Training Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's director of welfare says he believes public officials and schools of social work can cooperate in training welfare personnel.

Henry J. Robison, in an address last night before the 65th Ohio Welfare Conference, said welfare administration requires qualified personnel.

He told delegates that welfare programs are designed to preserve family life.

"Services in public welfare departments must be strengthened and must be available to individuals in their own homes, whether those individuals are children, adults or older persons,' Robison said.

The four-day conference ends tomorrow.

Jitterbug's Action Approved By Jury

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Christine Hibbs Tuesday lost a $47,600 damage suit against a hotel for injuries she said she suffered when a jitterbug knocked her down in the hotel's ballroom. She said she tried to avoid the jitterbug but that he backed into her and knocked her to he floor, causing her to break an elbow.

Burglary Shocks Wine Shop Clerk

TOKYO (AP)—Mrs. Katsuo Muto, a maid in a wine shop, told police here how a burglar had broken in, bound and gagged her, and made off with 20,000 yen ($55).

After she freed herself, she said, she thought a "long time" before telephoning police.

She had got a good look at the burglar, she said, and he was her son, Mitsuo Muto, 21, who had left home a year ago.

MR. FARMER

Do You Know What It Takes To Keep Your Farm Operating Profitably?

Sure, we know you have a long list of items which keep your farm shipshape and in profitable operating condition — a mental check-list of things you do and know which keep things humming.

Cooperation and Service of Your Local Implement Dealers

We hope you won't take offense if we state that we are extremely proud of the part we play in getting each season's crops out of the field and into your bank account.

Between us, we have made an investment capable of taking care of any service needs and employ trained mechanics to insure you the best possible service quickly and when you need it.

No matter what make of tractor or farm equipment you operate, Pickaway County Implement Dealers are tooled and trained to make repairs in the least possible time.

Our investment in modern tools and methods protects your valuable crop investment. There is no need to travel many miles and waste valuable time when Pickaway County Dealers stand equipped to service your needs.

Why It Is Profitable To Deal With Pickaway County Implement Dealers

ASSURANCE OF SATISFACTION
Being a part of this farming community, we endeavor to know as much as possible about your needs, your interests and your wants before we attempt to sell you some machinery. A sale is good for us only when it is good for you.

MORE THAN "JUST A DEAL"
We are your neighbors, and strive therefore to value your continued friendship above that of the mere dollar.

AUTHORIZED DEALERS
Each of us is an authorized dealer. This means we put our reputation on everything we sell. Remembering that today's transaction is tomorrow's reputation, we must give the top in service and stand behind the "deal" — unlike unauthorized dealers who sell, but give no promise of satisfaction.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT
We, as local dealers, support the community which serves you, the farmer. Schools, churches, the hospital — we give to them all. This helps to make a stronger community for all of us. But our support could not be maintained if the farmer did not support us.

WE ARE HERE
Why buy out of town, when your service, your guarantees, your future prosperity are at home?

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem involves me and my brother's fiancee. I am 26 (two years older than my brother), and the girl is 23. They have been engaged for three years. I believe I am falling in love with her. She treats me very nicely and waits on me hand and foot.

Lately she has told me that she dreams about me; and that she has many sleepless nights because of me; yet she states that she loves my brother.

To further complicate matters, she often wears an intimate negligee-type of dress, while listening to television programs. Sometimes pajamas with a housecoat; other times, just pajamas are her lounging attire. She appears to be offering me opportunities for a love affair, but I don't want to wrong either my brother or her.

What do you advise in these circumstances? After all, I am human and tempted; and my self-control is being severely tried. Lately the girl appears to be moving in a day-dreaming state; and I have been dreaming about her lately, and walking around in a daze, too.

I would appreciate your recommendations before I lose my mind.

B.R.

DEAR B. R.: The two-timing behavior of your brother's fiancee is tragi-comic. It appears that she fancies herself to be a femme fatale when in the mood; and that she is rehearsing the role in relation to you at present.

In imagination and in conversation, she is making a pitch for you, brashly confident that her allure is sufficient to overpower your scruples (if any). But to what purpose? She hasn't figured that far ahead, it seems; because when you've asked, in effect, what her feelings are, she remarks that she still loves your brother.

I think she means, by that remark, that she isn't letting go of the bird-in-hand, while trying to ensnare the bird in the bush. I doubt that she is emotionally capable of making a profound commitment in the field of love—with your brother, or you, or anyone else. She would need psychiatric help to put her in line for that, I gather. It is the infantile, psychologically frigid female who gets involved in sudden (but senseless) infatuations, inspired by day dreams. And I believe your temptress belongs in this category as yet.

I take it she wants to make a conquest of you just to have it on record that she can. Maybe because you seem hard to get; or possibly to undercut some other girl, who may have spoken of setting her cap for you.

Save Fool From Folly?

You say you don't want to misbehave; and you ask advcie in the circumstances. Well, it is almost impossible to save a fool from his folly (as Scripture reminds), so I am not sure that advice will help. However, my advice is: (1) Either steer clear of the girl absolutely, never again giving audience to her vampire routine, or (2) Put your cards on the table with her—and your brother. And see what happens.

By putting your cards on the table, I mean telling her that she has your head in a whirl, that you know she is making an unfair play and you are sucker enough to be interested—BUT. And the BUT is this—if she is really disposed to get serious with you, she first has to break off clean with your brother. And if she isn't prepared to do that, and continues to make a play for you, you will discuss the potential triangle with him, and thereafter decide your next move.

I think that ought to clear the air somewhat, and give you a strong new grip on yourself.

M.H.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A liquor store inserted this advertisement in the News-Miner after an outbreak of holdups here:

"Everybody loves the Big Bend Liquor Store. Nobody robs us because we are straight shooters."

The next day two holdup men entered the store and relieved clerk Mary Kossoff of $5,000.

"IT COULD SNOW"

THE "OLD Farmer's Almanac" for 1956 has come out. Here again is the same yellow cover with the woodcuts entitled "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn" and "Winter, and the pictures of Benjamin Franklin and Robert B. Thomas. Mr. Thomas was the editor until 1846. Reading the foreward, over his signature, you'd think he still was.

As always, this 164-year-old almanac is full of diurnal data. Some of it is cold, hard calculation, giving the time of high tide at various spots along both coasts. (You can add or subtract to find the hour and minute. It's all figured from the tides at Commonwealth Pier at Boston). Sun, moon and planets hold no secrets from the almanac.

In the realm of weather predictions, however, the Old Farmer's Almanac cuts loose from the rigidities of calculation. An anonymous "Mr. Weatherwise" has a wonderful tmie. How about the period of February 11 to 15? "Plenty of real bad weather," he says, and who doubts it? For the next four days his comment is simply "Button up your overcoat."

He can be specific. There will be snow on Washington's birthday. (He doesn't say where, but he seems safe enough in that prediction). St. Patrick's Day will have "indications of spring." In the Central East Coast area that's the day the fish hawks come back and start working on their old nests. Hello, he's got his eye on California in this same way—says March 19 is the day when the swallows come back to San Capistrano.

WHOSE 'INHERENT POWERS?'

THE U. S. CIVIL Service Commission has told a House investigating subcommittee it has "inherent powers" under the Constitution to withhold information from Congress, the press, and the public.

The statement by the Civil Service Commission has the virtue of laying the question on the line. Other agencies called before this subcommittee on Freedom of Information have adopted the "Who me?" attitude of innocence. The commission called a spade a spade.

The question is: Does the public have a right to know what is going on in governmental agencies supported by its tax money or do these agencies have "inherent powers" to decide what the public shall know?

The question is of particular interest to the press which does its probing all the time no matter which party is in power. The press must always consider itself an "out" in relation to any governmental agency. Only thus can it fulfill its obligation to its public in making sure government is honest and doing its job well.

The Civil Service Commission's claim should set in motion legal machinery to test this concept. The outcome of this "inherent power" debate will be of importance not only on the national level. It will apply also at the state and local level.

FIXING BOUNDARIES

THE UNITED STATES prides itself on its peaceful borders with neighboring nations. Particularly is this true of Canada where no fortifications or other political barriers have been visible for more than 100 years.

So it is surprising to read the emphasis Iran and the Soviet Union are placing on a joint venture of exactly marking the boundary line between them. Diplomats on both sides have said this will open a new era of friendship and understanding between the two nations.

Placing such importance on a geodetic operation may seem far fetched. But differences over boundary lines have caused wars in South America, such as the bloody Gran Chaco War between Paraguay and Bolivia 20 years ago where thousands of lives were lost.

Another boundary dispute creating extreme world tension now is that between Israel and the Arab states.

The noted American poet, Robert Frost, said it as well as anyone in his poem, "Mending Wall," in which one New Englander quietly asserts to his fellow:

"Good fences make good neighbors."

These Days

The memory of Robert A. Taft freshens as the 1956 Campaign rolls around because, while he never became President, he was the leader of his party at times when it had no other leader. Of him, it can be said that he gave his party an intellectual stature when it was falling apart during the years of the New Deal. He was never diverted from the traditions of his party by the prospect of popularity which he did not crave or shun.

And so his friends are setting up a memorial to his honor. This takes two forms, one a physical memorial, a monument in Washington, near the Senate. The plans are drawn for this and the money is being raised from the public. The other is a school of politics which is still in the discussion stage.

Like most other unusual men, Robert A. Taft left behind him a small but ardent group of devotees who recognized his worth while he was alive and do not wish that he should be forgotten. How large and effective this group is will surely be measured by the size of their contributions to his memorial and the ease with which they are collected. If a terrific and costly campaign has to be put on, the whole thing may not be worth doing at all. If there is no interest, there is no memory.

The Republican Party is faced by the need of rebuilding the party to meet the necessities of 1956 which cannot wait much longer because 1956 is just around the corner. Unless the Republicans heal the wounds of the past three years, they may not be able to win. One of their problems is to gain control of the Senate and the House of Representatives. They had such control in the 83rd Congress but lost it in the 84th Congress. This loss has proved to be embarrassing to President Eisenhower, although some of his political advisers thought that he was above party and that it did not matter.

Robert A. Taft, although he contested for the nomination against Dwight D. Eisenhower in the 1952 Convention, came to the President's support during the last months of his life because, as a practical politician, he understood the importance of political unity between the White House and the Congress. Had Taft lived, the President would have had a bold and imaginative leadership in the Congress. His death was such a great loss because no other leader quite took his place.

In fact, the relations between the President and Republican members of Congress were left to White House functionaries who lacked stature and authority and therefore could only carry messages back and forth.

Senator William Knowland, the responsible leader of the Senate, was never given the acceptance essential to full leadership which is a two-way street, namely that he has to have the unstinted confidence of the President and of the Republican members of Congress. Between Knowland and the President stood the White House staff whom Senator Taft would have brushed aside as he undoubtedly did during the last months of his life.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

SHANDY'S dark eyes were troubled as he gazed at Lois. "Look here, Lois, you'd better let Doc take a look at you."

"Not Dr. Thomas," Lois said firmly, "he regards me as Public Enemy Number One."

"Well, of course," Shandy said, "he has a point there."

"He told Jane Brindle that Roger had killed himself."

After a startled look, Shandy turned his back to her and began poking at the keys. It was a stiff, almost a hostile back.

"First it was a heart attack," Lois said. "But he knew he couldn't fool Jane about that. So now it is suicide. Who is the man protecting, Shandy, at the expense of his friend's reputation?"

He pushed back the big chair that had been Roger's and stood beside the couch, looking down at her. She found herself wishing that she could see behind the shining surface of his eyes.

"Let this alone, Lois. Let it alone."

"I can't," she said helplessly. "There has been a crime and no one is doing anything about it. You are all covering up."

His eyes were very bright. "Let it alone," he said again. "Perhaps then we'd have a chance."

"Who would?"

"You and I." He went back to the typewriter, poked at the keys. At length he yanked the paper out of the machine. "How's this?" he asked in his usual voice and read aloud:

WANTED: an employer to whom Ethel Hattery can give the same faithful service as a secretary that she gave to Roger Brindle.

"That ought to bring results," Lois said. In answer to a tap on the door she called, "Come in."

This morning Ethel Hattery's skin looked gray with fatigue. Her mouth, without make-up, was blue-white. There were hollows under her eyes.

"Anything I can do for you?" she asked. "Any typing?"

"You are exhausted," Lois exclaimed. "Have you had any rest?"

"I'll rest now if you don't need me. Dr. Thomas just left. Paula's pretty uncomfortable, of course, but she had a fair night and she'll be all right. Mrs. Kibbee is going to keep an eye on her this morning."

"Did you sit up all night?"

Ethel nodded. "I didn't mind. I haven't been sleeping much anyhow the last few weeks."

Shandy handed her the advertisement he had written. "I'll try this on the metropolitan papers, Ethel. You ought to get something pretty good out of it, enough offers so that you can pick and choose."

The secretary read it through twice. "That's rather clever of you," she remarked at length tonelessly. She handed back the sheet of paper and her eyes traveled around the cottage as though saying good-bye with a kind of dumb pain. "But will anyone else put up with Joe?"

"Get rid of him," Shandy advised her.

Ethel's expression was sardonic. "You needn't be afraid."

Shandy ignored her mocking tone. "I meant it. He's no good to himself and no good to you. There's no earthly reason for carrying that burden around with you."

"You know I can't get rid of him now. I'll never be able to leave him now." Her feet dragged as she went to the door. "How glad you'll all be to be free of us." For a moment she stood on the threshold, her back to them. "Particularly you," she said.

When she had gone, Lois sat up, throwing off the blanket.

"Stay where you are," Shandy insisted. He was beside her in an instant, his hand on her shoulder, pressing her down.

She shook it off. "I'm tired of being muzzled."

He grinned at her. "Though you can fret me—"

"I don't want to pluck out the heart of your mystery," she flamed.

The smile deepened. "Don't you?"

The room seemed too close, too small. Instinctively, Lois put her hand as though to ward him off. "Shandy, why did Joe Hattery go to prison?"

"Extortion."

"So that's it!"

"All right," he said grimly. "There are some things you had better understand. I know, as well as I know that you are here in this room, making your hair stand on end by running your fingers through it, that Roger Brindle was murdered. The night he died I dropped in to see him about eleven-thirty. I recognized my own symptoms enough to know I was going to have a sleepless night and his lights were still burning. Roger was one of the people I didn't mind having see me. I came down, as I often did, to talk to him. He was lying on the couch with his head flung back so that it was clear off the pillow, out like a light, dead drunk. When he was found the next morning he was lying in exactly the same position. He had never moved. I could swear to that. But, meantime, the gas fireplace had been turned on and not lighted. Roger could not have turned it on and put himself back in exactly the same position."

Shandy paced up and down the room. "You are wondering why I didn't say something. Well, the first thing I heard, after being told of Roger's death, was that he had died of a heart attack. That was Doc Thomas' doing. And the day of Roger's funeral Joe Hattery dropped in to see me. Joe had quite a case against me. He had seen me go into Roger's cottage the night he died; he knew that someone had shot at Roger two nights before and I'm the only person on the place who has a gun; he knew I had been engaged to marry Carol before she—decided on Roger."

"He wanted money?"

"He wanted money," Shandy said.

"You wouldn't be such a fool—" Lois began in alarm.

"No," Shandy assured her, "I wouldn't."

"Are you positive that it was your gun?"

He shrugged. "The bullet was a .22. My gun was a .22. I'm reasonably sure that's the one Paula unearthed. I'd give a lot to be able to question her." He offered Lois a cigaret, lighted it and one for himself and strolled over to the Dutch door. He said lightly, "The tiresome part of the business is that the gun seems to have disappeared again."

Lois' hands were rigid. "But, Shandy," she half whispered. "But, Shandy."

"Is there any reason," he demanded, "why you have to work here? Can't you take the material back to New York and write in your own apartment? Do you have to stay?"

"Aren't you being rather melodramatic?"

"I don't like disappearing guns," he said stubbornly.

"But, I—but nobody—oh, Shandy, this is really nonsense. I'm no danger to anyone."

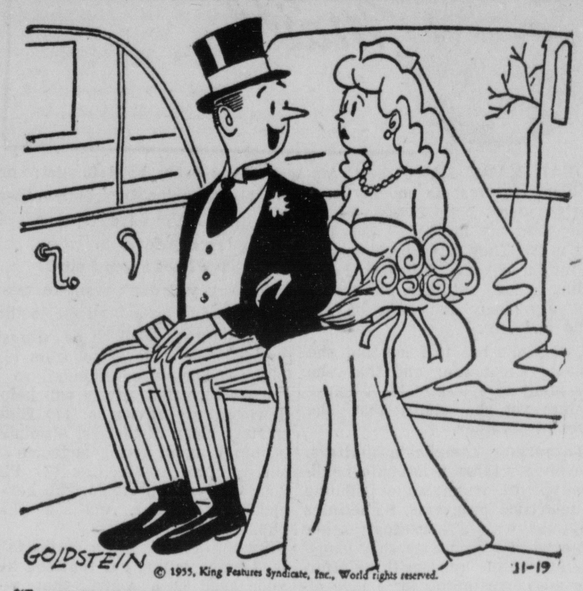

"You were never," he told her oddly, "more mistaken in your life." He drew her to her feet. "Lois," he said and pulled her into his arms and kissed her. "Lois, I'm terribly in love with you. I don't want to talk about Roger any more. I want to talk about you and me." He released her abruptly. "I didn't realize how done up you are. Trust Stowe to pick the wrong time. Come on."

Ignoring her protests, he settled her in the long chair on the terrace and brought out the Scotch plaid blanket, which he wrapped around her. "Stay here and rest," he ordered. "Don't worry. Don't think about anything. Anything at all. I'll retype the advertisement and send it off." He bent over and his lips brushed her forehead. Then he went inside.

Allergy Victim May Become Blood Donor

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU can still donate blood to the Red Cross blood banks even if you have an allergy such as hay fever, asthma, rhinitis and the like.

While there has been some discussion as to whether allergy victims should aid the blood program, the Committee of the American Academy of Allergy says they can. Except for some limitations, the committee reported recently that blood from allergic donors can be stored and processed safely.

Some Precautions

However, some precautions must be taken to prevent transfusion from causing allergic reactions among sensitive persons receiving blood from donors suffering allergies.

If you have received an injection of an allergen such as pollen, dust or mold extracts, wait at least two weeks before offering to donate your blood.

If you have taken drugs or antibiotics known to produce undesirable effects, wait two weeks before donating blood.

Don't take any medications for two days prior to donating blood.

Don't eat any foods likely to cause an allergic reaction before making your donation.

Don't give blood while you are having allergic symptoms.

Drs. Matthew Walzer, Oscar Swineford, Jr., and Carl E. Arbesman, members of the allergy committee, point out that transfusions may cause allergic reactions in recipients in various ways.

Donors can transfer sensitizing antibodies to allergic or nonallergic recipients who have recently inhaled, eaten or been injected with corresponding allergens.

A sensitive recipient may also be affected by foods, inhalants or drugs passed on to him in the blood of an allergic or nonallergic donor.

But don't put off your blood donation simply because you have an allergy. Check with your Red Cross blood bank for advice.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E. W.: What causes pinworms and what can be done to eliminate them?

Answer: Pinworms are brought into the body probably by water or food.

Treatment with one of several drugs, given orally, should be carried out under the direction of a physician.

No Pushbutton 'Thank You'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The pushbutton era is just dawning in the hotel industry, but what a glorious dawn!

It promises a golden time acoming when the weary wayworn traveler will be less dependent on the sometimes frigid hospitality of an officious desk clerk, or the tired courtesy of an overworked bellhop.

In the electronic age now coming to flower, a hotel guest will be able to lie in bed and by pushing a series of buttons in a panel accomplish the following things:

1. Summon a valet without having to go through the switchboard downstairs.
2. Order fresh ice and glasses or the morning newspaper, which will pop into the room via a pneumatic tube.
3. Lock or unlock the door.
4. Turn the lights off or on throughout the room.
5. Dictate business letters at night and find them typed and ready for signature at his bedside in the morning.
6. Control the temperature and humidity in the room—and determine what the weather is like outside.
7. Open or close the window shades.
8. Get the latest radio news or watch a television program in the panel of one of the walls.
9. Set a clock that will waken him with soft chimes at any hour he chooses.
10. Protect him or any other guest against fire. An automatic alarm will detect and signal the location of fire anywhere in the hotel.

The pushbutton servants on a bedside console are just a few of the revolutionary gimmicks shown here at the recent convention of the American Hotel Assn.

Another time-saving idea was an electronic brain device called "The computer center-registration desk."

Some of its possible functions:

The automatic registration of guest, the assignment of rooms, and the transmission of mail and messages to guests, and the computing of bills.

The derned machine can even make change. It probably could be taught to say "thank you," too, except who even dreams any more today of being thanked when he pays a bill? Most people today are grateful if they get all their fingers back.

"IT COULD SNOW"

THE "OLD Farmer's Almanac" for 1956 has come out. Here again is the same yellow cover with the woodcuts entitled "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn" and "Winter, and the pictures of Benjamin Franklin and Robert B. Thomas. Mr. Thomas was the editor until 1846. Reading the foreward, over his signature, you'd think he still was.

As always, this 164-year-old almanac is full of diurnal data. Some of it is cold, hard calculation, giving the time of high tide at various spots along both coasts. (You can add or subtract to find the hour and minute. It's all figured from the tides at Commonwealth Pier at Boston). Sun, moon and planets hold no secrets from the almanac.

In the realm of weather predictions, however, the Old Farmer's Almanac cuts loose from the rigidities of calculation. An anonymous "Mr. Weatherwise" has a wonderful tmie. How about the period of February 11 to 15? "Plenty of real bad weather," he says, and who doubts it? For the next four days his comment is simply "Button up your overcoat."

He can be specific. There will be snow on Washington's birthday. (He doesn't say where, but he seems safe enough in that prediction). St. Patrick's Day will have "indications of spring." In the Central East Coast area that's the day the fish hawks come back and start working on their old nests. Hello, he's got his eye on California in this same way—says March 19 is the day when the swallows come back to San Capistrano.

Ethel nodded. "I didn't mind. I haven't been sleeping much anyhow the last few weeks."

Shandy handed her the advertisement he had written. "I'll try this on the metropolitan papers, Ethel. You ought to get something pretty good out of it, enough offers so that you can pick and choose."

The secretary read it through twice. "That's rather clever of you," she remarked at length tonelessly. She handed back the sheet of paper and her eyes traveled around the cottage as though saying good-bye with a kind of dumb pain. "But will anyone else put up with Joe?"

"Get rid of him," Shandy advised her.

Ethel's expression was sardonic. "You needn't be afraid."

Shandy ignored her mocking tone. "I meant it. He's no good to himself and no good to you. There's no earthly reason for carrying that burden around with you."

"You know I can't get rid of him now. I'll never be able to leave him now." Her feet dragged as she went to the door. "How glad you'll all be to be free of us." For a moment she stood on the threshold, her back to them. "Particularly you," she said.

When she had gone, Lois sat up, throwing off the blanket.

"Stay where you are," Shandy insisted. He was beside her in an instant, his hand on her shoulder, pressing her down.

She shook it off. "I'm tired of being muzzled."

He grinned at her. "Though you can fret me—"

"I don't want to pluck out the heart of your mystery," she flamed.

The smile deepened. "Don't you?"

The room seemed too close, too small. Instinctively, Lois put her hand as though to ward him off. "Shandy, why did Joe Hattery go to prison?"

"Extortion."

"So that's it!"

"All right," he said grimly. "There are some things you had better understand. I know, as well as I know that you are here in this room, making your hair stand on end by running your fingers through it, that Roger Brindle was murdered. The night he died I dropped in to see him about eleven-thirty. I recognized my own symptoms enough to know I was going to have a sleepless night and his lights were still burning. Roger was one of the people I didn't mind having see me. I came down, as I often did, to talk to him. He was lying on the couch with his head flung back so that it was clear off the pillow, out like a light, dead drunk. When he was found the next morning he was lying in exactly the same position. He had never moved. I could swear to that. But, meantime, the gas fireplace had been turned on and not lighted. Roger could not have turned it on and put himself back in exactly the same position."

Shandy paced up and down the room. "You are wondering why I didn't say something. Well, the first thing I heard, after being told of Roger's death, was that he had died of a heart attack. That was Doc Thomas' doing. And the day of Roger's funeral Joe Hattery dropped in to see me. Joe had quite a case against me. He had seen me go into Roger's cottage the night he died; he knew that someone had shot at Roger two nights before and I'm the only person on the place who has a gun; he knew I had been engaged to marry Carol before she—decided on Roger."

"He wanted money?"

"He wanted money," Shandy said.

"You wouldn't be such a fool—" Lois began in alarm.

"No," Shandy assured her, "I wouldn't."

"Are you positive that it was your gun?"

He shrugged. "The bullet was a .22. My gun was a .22. I'm reasonably sure that's the one Paula unearthed. I'd give a lot to be able to question her." He offered Lois a cigaret, lighted it and one for himself and strolled over to the Dutch door. He said lightly, "The tiresome part of the business is that the gun seems to have disappeared again."

Lois' hands were rigid. "But, Shandy," she half whispered. "But, Shandy."

"Is there any reason," he demanded, "why you have to work here? Can't you take the material back to New York and write in your own apartment? Do you have to stay?"

"Aren't you being rather melodramatic?"

"I don't like disappearing guns," he said stubbornly.

"But, I—but nobody—oh, Shandy, this is really nonsense. I'm no danger to anyone."

"You were never," he told her oddly, "more mistaken in your life." He drew her to her feet. "Lois," he said and pulled her into his arms and kissed her. "Lois, I'm terribly in love with you. I don't want to talk about Roger any more. I want to talk about you and me." He released her abruptly. "I didn't realize how done up you are. Trust Stowe to pick the wrong time. Come on."

Ignoring her protests, he settled her in the long chair on the terrace and brought out the Scotch plaid blanket, which he wrapped around her. "Stay here and rest," he ordered. "Don't worry. Don't think about anything. Anything at all. I'll retype the advertisement and send it off." He bent over and his lips brushed her forehead. Then he went inside.

Allergy Victim May Become Blood Donor

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU can still donate blood to the Red Cross blood banks even if you have an allergy such as hay fever, asthma, rhinitis and the like.

While there has been some discussion as to whether allergy victims should aid the blood program, the Committee of the American Academy of Allergy says they can. Except for some limitations, the committee reported recently that blood from allergic donors can be stored and processed safely.

Some Precautions

However, some precautions must be taken to prevent transfusion from causing allergic reactions among sensitive persons receiving blood from donors suffering allergies.

If you have received an injection of an allergen such as pollen, dust or mold extracts, wait at least two weeks before offering to donate your blood.

If you have taken drugs or antibiotics known to produce undesirable effects, wait two weeks before donating blood.

Don't take any medications for two days prior to donating blood.

Don't eat any foods likely to cause an allergic reaction before making your donation.

Don't give blood while you are having allergic symptoms.

Drs. Matthew Walzer, Oscar Swineford, Jr., and Carl E. Arbesman, members of the allergy committee, point out that transfusions may cause allergic reactions in recipients in various ways.

Donors can transfer sensitizing antibodies to allergic or nonallergic recipients who have recently inhaled, eaten or been injected with corresponding allergens.

A sensitive recipient may also be affected by foods, inhalants or drugs passed on to him in the blood of an allergic or nonallergic donor.

But don't put off your blood donation simply because you have an allergy. Check with your Red Cross blood bank for advice.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E. W.: What causes pinworms and what can be done to eliminate them?

Answer: Pinworms are brought into the body probably by water or food.

Treatment with one of several drugs, given orally, should be carried out under the direction of a physician.

No Pushbutton 'Thank You'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The pushbutton era is just dawning in the hotel industry, but what a glorious dawn!

It promises a golden time acoming when the weary wayworn traveler will be less dependent on the sometimes frigid hospitality of an officious desk clerk, or the tired courtesy of an overworked bellhop.

In the electronic age now coming to flower, a hotel guest will be able to lie in bed and by pushing a series of buttons in a panel accomplish the following things:

1. Summon a valet without having to go through the switchboard downstairs.
2. Order fresh ice and glasses or the morning newspaper, which will pop into the room via a pneumatic tube.
3. Lock or unlock the door.
4. Turn the lights off or on throughout the room.
5. Dictate business letters at night and find them typed and ready for signature at his bedside in the morning.
6. Control the temperature and humidity in the room—and determine what the weather is like outside.
7. Open or close the window shades.
8. Get the latest radio news or watch a television program in the panel of one of the walls.
9. Set a clock that will waken him with soft chimes at any hour he chooses.
10. Protect him or any other guest against fire. An automatic alarm will detect and signal the location of fire anywhere in the hotel.

The pushbutton servants on a bedside console are just a few of the revolutionary gimmicks shown here at the recent convention of the American Hotel Assn.

Another time-saving idea was an electronic brain device called "The computer center-registration desk."

Some of its possible functions:

The automatic registration of guest, the assignment of rooms, and the transmission of mail and messages to guests, and the computing of bills.

The derned machine can even make change. It probably could be taught to say "thank you," too, except who even dreams any more today of being thanked when he pays a bill? Most people today are grateful if they get all their fingers back.

Try, Stop Me

It's tough for an honest cabbie to eke out a living in New York. Bob Sylvester tells about a Kentucky matron who left her pocketbook, stuffed with currency, in a taxi. The driver suddenly appeared in the store she had entered, and gave her the bag. Gratified, she rewarded him with a $10 tip. But when he returned to his vehicle, he found it plastered with a $15 parking ticket.

Nell Dirks, of "The Progressive Farmer," produces evidence that many a journalist has had a little pun with the naming of a budding newspaper. The college daily at Mississippi Southern, for instance, is called "The Student Printz". In Arkansas, you'll find "De Queen Bee" in De Queen, "The Echo" in Yellville, and "The Hot Springs Rub-Down" in the famous health resort, Hot Springs. 'The Derrick" operates in Oil City, Pennsylvania, and "The Epitaph" dishes out the news in Tombstone, Arizona.

Adam and Eve were undoubtedly the first bookkeepers. They invented the loose-leaf system.

Huber Couple Celebrates 53 Years Of Married Life

Surprise Party Given In Columbus

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber of 220 E. Mound St. celebrated 53 years of married life Saturday.

They were entertained in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bergman of Columbus with a surprise turkey dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber were married Nov. 12, 1902 in Carroll by the Rev. R. T. Slimmel, a Methodist minister. They are the parents of six daughters and four sons. One son died at the age of ten months. They also have 23 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Huber, born in Fairfield County, is the former Miss Ida M. Amspaugh. This week is a double celebration for her as she will celebrate her 75th birthday Thursday. Mr. Huber was born in Pickaway County.

They have lived most of their lives in this community, having spent 34 years on the farm. Mr. Huber is now a representative for the J. & R. Watkins Co. They are both members of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church of Circleville.

When asked what advice they would give to young couples, the Hubers answered in unison lead a Christian Life, and Mrs. Huber added don't stay mad at each other more than an hour, and then that's too long.

Mr. Huber also stated it takes hard work too, and we've both worked hard. You don't raise a large family like ours without hard work and a lot of watching the pennies. But we've had a happy life together and we are very thankful.

They said, "We expect to spend the rest of our lives in Circleville as we are close to our two daughters."

The dinner in their honor was a complete surprise to them as there had been a big celebration in their honor on their 50th anniversary, when their children presented them with a television set. Many gifts were presented to the honored couple Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber have their wedding certificate framed and hanging on the wall. The colors around the border are as bright as ever, but Mr. Huber has traced the names in ink, as they have become dim.

All of their children were present at the celebration except two sons, the Rev. George H. Huber, a Methodist minister in Tampa, Idaho, and Charles Huber of Gloucester City, N. J.

Those present for the surprise dinner were: the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Betz, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parcels and children, Roger and Regina, from Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Frazier of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Drum and son, David, of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Eswine and children, JoAnn, of Basil; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Huber of Charleston, W. Va. and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bergman and children, Tommy and Bobby.

Tarlton Youth Weds Saturday

Miss Nancy Jane Elleman, daughter of Mrs. Harry Cottingham of Eaton and Mr. W. H. Elleman of Columbus, became the bride of Mr. Dean E. Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hedges of Tarlton, Saturday.

The Rev. Joseph Shellhaas performed the double-ring ceremony in Glenwood Methodist Church in Columbus before an altar banked with baskets of yellow mums and palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Italian taffeta designed with a fitted bodice, an off-shoulder neckline and brief sleeves. Re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed with simulated seed pearls was appliqued over the neckline. The extremely full skirt fell over a hoop skirt and crinoline petticoat. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white orchid on a Bible.

Mrs. Sally Morris, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of aqua silk accented with a full skirt. Her headdress was of matching velvet. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and bronze pompons.

A reception was held at the church with Mrs. James R. Elleman, Miss Mary Alexander and Miss Alice Ray as hostesses.

The bride is a graduate of Tipp City High School and is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Hedges is a graduate of Saltcreek High School and is employed by the Telephone Co.

The couple will reside at 1436 Alberta St., Dayton.

The next meeting will be Dec. 18, and will feature a Christmas gift exchange. It will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Glitt of Stoutsville Route 1.

2 Events Highlight Scioto Ladies Aid November Meet

A luncheon and Thanksgiving Offering highlighted the November meeting of the Scioto Chapel Ladies Aid Society recently.

Fifty-two members and guests assembled in the parish house for the luncheon prepared by Mrs. Elza Brooks, Mrs. Otto Bethards and Mrs. Ralph Phillips.

The Rev. Paul Lindsey of the S. Bloomfield Methodist Church, guest minister in the absence of Rev. J. D. Hopper, offered prayer. Mrs. Lindsey and daughter Kathy were also guests.

Following the luncheon, the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Brooks.

The afternoon program centered around Veteran's Day and Thanksgiving. The group sang "America", followed by devotions in charge of Mrs. Harold Fee. This included scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Howard Younkin.

Mrs. Brooks presented two readings "To Old Glory" and "Three Needs". The Origin of Thanksgiving was given by Mrs. Ralph Haughn; Mrs. Paul Thompson presented a piano solo; Mrs. Myron Hudson presented a paper on St. Augustine, Fla., written by Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Paul Lindsey rendered a vocal solo "He", accompanied by Mrs. Charles Young; Mrs. Roy Ankrom presented a reading "A Silver Picture"; Mrs. Carl Dudleson rendered a vocal solo "Memory", accompanied by Mrs. Ankrom.

A short talk on the Union Guild of Jackson Township was given by the president, Mrs. Orland Schooley, followed by a response by Mrs. George Fischer.

Mrs. C. A. Bliss gave a short talk on "The Country Church". Mrs. Jennie Stewart presented a reading "My Land, What a Wedding". The program was concluded by a response by Mrs. Lindsey.

Mystery Sister gifts were received by Mrs. I. A. Fausnaugh, Mrs. C. W. Hedges, Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Lloyd Melvin.

The next meeting of the society will be Dec. 8, at which time a covered dish luncheon will be held followed by gift exchange.

The Mystery Sisters will be revealed at this time and names drawn for next year. Those members who do not have a Mystery Sister are urged to take a gift for the exchange. Also, those taking children should take a gift for them.

Sketching And Caricatures Feature Art League Meet

Pencil sketching and caricatures were features of the meeting of the Circleville Art League meeting held at the Studio Monday evening.

Ruth E. Montelius gave a short demonstration of pencil sketching, explaining that an artist uses his sketch book as a writer uses his notebook for reference. Quick action sketches, with as few lines as possible, and perhaps details of trees or heads that can be used later in composing a painting, are included in the sketch book.

The remainder of the program was in charge of H. E. Montelius, who conducted a caricature contest, consisting of three-minute sketches. Mrs. Kenneth Luna was voted the winner and given a prize for her caricature of Orin Clarke Stout.

A report of the exhibit of paintings now showing at a downtown store was given. Mrs. Gene Kuhns and Mrs. Orin Clarke Stout now have their paintings on display.

Mrs. Kenneth Luna, Mrs. Edwin C. Bach Jr., Ruth E. Montelius and H. E. Montelius will have paintings on display starting Nov. 28.

Mrs. Brunell Wiggins and Mrs. William Collins, chairmen of the Pumpkin Show exhibit, reported all attendance records were broken this year. Mr. George Jenny, curator of the Ohio State Museum, was one of the visitors who complimented the League on the quality of its show.

The annual Beaux Arts Christmas Party is scheduled for Dec. 19, to be held at the Montelius home on Circleville Route 1. It will be a pot-luck dinner and a costume party.

A farewell and bon-voyage was voiced to the retiring president, Orin Clarke Stout and retiring secretary, Mrs. Stout, who are leaving to spend the Winter in Phoenix, Ariz.

The meeting was closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Robert Hutzelman and Mrs. Stout as hostesses.

Huber Couple Celebrates 53 Years Of Married Life

Surprise Party Given In Columbus

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber of 220 E. Mound St. celebrated 53 years of married life Saturday.

They were entertained in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bergman of Columbus with a surprise turkey dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber were married Nov. 12, 1902 in Carroll by the Rev. R. T. Slimmel, a Methodist minister. They are the parents of six daughters and four sons. One son died at the age of ten months. They also have 23 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Huber, born in Fairfield County, is the former Miss Ida M. Amspaugh. This week is a double celebration for her as she will celebrate her 75th birthday Thursday. Mr. Huber was born in Pickaway County.

They have lived most of their lives in this community, having spent 34 years on the farm. Mr. Huber is now a representative for the J. & R. Watkins Co. They are both members of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church of Circleville.

When asked what advice they would give to young couples, the Hubers answered in unison lead a Christian Life, and Mrs. Huber added don't stay mad at each other more than an hour, and then that's too long.

Mr. Huber also stated it takes hard work too, and we've both worked hard. You don't raise a large family like ours without hard work and a lot of watching the pennies. But we've had a happy life together and we are very thankful.

They said, "We expect to spend the rest of our lives in Circleville as we are close to our two daughters."

The dinner in their honor was a complete surprise to them as there had been a big celebration in their honor on their 50th anniversary, when their children presented them with a television set. Many gifts were presented to the honored couple Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber have their wedding certificate framed and hanging on the wall. The colors around the border are as bright as ever, but Mr. Huber has traced the names in ink, as they have become dim.

All of their children were present at the celebration except two sons, the Rev. George H. Huber, a Methodist minister in Tampa, Idaho, and Charles Huber of Gloucester City, N. J.

Those present for the surprise dinner were: the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Betz, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parcels and children, Roger and Regina, from Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Frazier of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Drum and son, David, of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Eswine and children, JoAnn, of Basil; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Huber of Charleston, W. Va. and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bergman and children, Tommy and Bobby.

Tarlton Youth Weds Saturday

Miss Nancy Jane Elleman, daughter of Mrs. Harry Cottingham of Eaton and Mr. W. H. Elleman of Columbus, became the bride of Mr. Dean E. Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hedges of Tarlton, Saturday.

The Rev. Joseph Shellhaas performed the double-ring ceremony in Glenwood Methodist Church in Columbus before an altar banked with baskets of yellow mums and palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Italian taffeta designed with a fitted bodice, an off-shoulder neckline and brief sleeves. Re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed with simulated seed pearls was appliqued over the neckline. The extremely full skirt fell over a hoop skirt and crinoline petticoat. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white orchid on a Bible.

Mrs. Sally Morris, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of aqua silk accented with a full skirt. Her headdress was of matching velvet. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and bronze pompons.

A reception was held at the church with Mrs. James R. Elleman, Miss Mary Alexander and Miss Alice Ray as hostesses.

The bride is a graduate of Tipp City High School and is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Hedges is a graduate of Saltcreek High School and is employed by the Telephone Co.

The couple will reside at 1436 Alberta St., Dayton.

Pontius EUB Unit Holds Elections

Election of officers highlighted the meeting of the Gleaners Sunday School class of the Pontius Evangelical United Brethren Church when it met recently in the home of Mary and Francis Clark of Circleville Route 3.

Elected were: president, Guy Stockman; vice-president, Francis Clark; secretary, Mrs. Larry Goodman; assistant secretary, Mrs. Harold Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Walker; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Guy Stockman; pianist, Mrs. Jacob Glitt.

Mrs. Larry Goodman, president, was in charge of the business meeting during which the class voted to give a contribution to the Otterbein Home for Children.

Refreshments were served by the host and hostess at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting will be Dec. 18, and will feature a Christmas gift exchange. It will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Glitt of Stoutsville Route 1.

2 Events Highlight Scioto Ladies Aid November Meet

A luncheon and Thanksgiving Offering highlighted the November meeting of the Scioto Chapel Ladies Aid Society recently.

Fifty-two members and guests assembled in the parish house for the luncheon prepared by Mrs. Elza Brooks, Mrs. Otto Bethards and Mrs. Ralph Phillips.

The Rev. Paul Lindsey of the S. Bloomfield Methodist Church, guest minister in the absence of Rev. J. D. Hopper, offered prayer. Mrs. Lindsey and daughter Kathy were also guests.

Following the luncheon, the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Brooks.

The afternoon program centered around Veteran's Day and Thanksgiving. The group sang "America", followed by devotions in charge of Mrs. Harold Fee. This included scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Howard Younkin.

Mrs. Brooks presented two readings "To Old Glory" and "Three Needs". The Origin of Thanksgiving was given by Mrs. Ralph Haughn; Mrs. Paul Thompson presented a piano solo; Mrs. Myron Hudson presented a paper on St. Augustine, Fla., written by Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Paul Lindsey rendered a vocal solo "He", accompanied by Mrs. Charles Young; Mrs. Roy Ankrom presented a reading "A Silver Picture"; Mrs. Carl Dudleson rendered a vocal solo "Memory", accompanied by Mrs. Ankrom.

A short talk on the Union Guild of Jackson Township was given by the president, Mrs. Orland Schooley, followed by a response by Mrs. George Fischer.

Mrs. C. A. Bliss gave a short talk on "The Country Church". Mrs. Jennie Stewart presented a reading "My Land, What a Wedding". The program was concluded by a response by Mrs. Lindsey.

Mystery Sister gifts were received by Mrs. I. A. Fausnaugh, Mrs. C. W. Hedges, Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Lloyd Melvin.

The next meeting of the society will be Dec. 8, at which time a covered dish luncheon will be held followed by gift exchange.

The Mystery Sisters will be revealed at this time and names drawn for next year. Those members who do not have a Mystery Sister are urged to take a gift for the exchange. Also, those taking children should take a gift for them.

Sketching And Caricatures Feature Art League Meet

Pencil sketching and caricatures were features of the meeting of the Circleville Art League meeting held at the Studio Monday evening.

Ruth E. Montelius gave a short demonstration of pencil sketching, explaining that an artist uses his sketch book as a writer uses his notebook for reference. Quick action sketches, with as few lines as possible, and perhaps details of trees or heads that can be used later in composing a painting, are included in the sketch book.

The remainder of the program was in charge of H. E. Montelius, who conducted a caricature contest, consisting of three-minute sketches. Mrs. Kenneth Luna was voted the winner and given a prize for her caricature of Orin Clarke Stout.

A report of the exhibit of paintings now showing at a downtown store was given. Mrs. Gene Kuhns and Mrs. Orin Clarke Stout now have their paintings on display.

Mrs. Kenneth Luna, Mrs. Edwin C. Bach Jr., Ruth E. Montelius and H. E. Montelius will have paintings on display starting Nov. 28.

Mrs. Brunell Wiggins and Mrs. William Collins, chairmen of the Pumpkin Show exhibit, reported all attendance records were broken this year. Mr. George Jenny, curator of the Ohio State Museum, was one of the visitors who complimented the League on the quality of its show.

The annual Beaux Arts Christmas Party is scheduled for Dec. 19, to be held at the Montelius home on Circleville Route 1. It will be a pot-luck dinner and a costume party.

A farewell and bon-voyage was voiced to the retiring president, Orin Clarke Stout and retiring secretary, Mrs. Stout, who are leaving to spend the Winter in Phoenix, Ariz.

The meeting was closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Robert Hutzelman and Mrs. Stout as hostesses.

What Are Farmer's Troubles?

Red Hot Feud Boiling High Among Big, Small Operators

(Editor's Note: There's a red hot feud on between small and big farm operators. The reasons behind it, and what each side says should be done about it are set forth in the following story by AP farm reporter Ovid A. Martin, third in a series of five articles.)

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rapid mechanization of agriculture—spurred by huge war and postwar demands—is serving to pour fuel on a long smouldering rift between "small' and "big" farmers.

And declining prices of farm products the past few years are serving to fan the feud.

Recent hearings on farm problems held by the Senate Agriculture Committee in major farming areas of the country indicated this division may become a major issue—along with farm price supports—in next year's presidential campaign.

Machinery, electrification, better seeds, improved fertilizers and the like are making it possible to grow more and more crops on fewer and fewer acres. Likewise, new feeds are opening the way to the production of more meats, eggs and poultry with less feed and labor.

This increased efficiency is putting a squeeze on the operators of smaller farms who do not have the finances to take advantage of improved mechanization or enough land to justify their use.

Largely because of the mechanization, crop surpluses have been built up. Prices have been depressed as a consequence. Naturally, the less efficient producers are hit the hardest—and they are, in most cases, operators of smaller farms.

This development has given rise to new demands that government farm policies be designed to protect the "family - type" farm against the encroachments of corporate-type farming.

Government reports show there has been a rather sharp decline in the total number of farms in this country during the past 20 years. The decline has been accompanied by an increase in the average size of farms.

This situation is bringing to the forefront demands of some farmers and their leaders that the nation decide whether agriculture is to be regarded as merely a business-type enterprise or a social institution designed not only to produce food and fiber, but to preserve a rural way of life.

Conflicts over these two philosophies dominated many of the Senate committee hearings.

Typifying the viewpoint that agriculture is solely a business enterprise was the testimony given by President H. E. Slusher of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation at a hearing at Des Mines, Iowa.

"Recognition should be given," he said "to the fact that farming is a business and not just a way of life; that as a business, farms have become larger to make mechanization practical; that there is no virtue in making small farm operators any more than in making small business men; that subsistence farmers must be dealt with as a welfare problem and not as a farm problem."

Then there was the advice of plain-spoken Daniel E. Boodry, who has farmed 33 years in Goshen County, Wyo. Asserting agriculture "can take care of itself if left alone," Boodry suggested that farmers "hollering" about the situation should quit the farm.

On the other hand came the complaint of R. V. Fitzgerald Jr., farmer-spokesman for his neighbors in Aurora County, S. D.

"We decry the efforts of those who would foist upon the farmer any farm program which will, through economic necessity, place the farmer into the employ of giant 'corporation' farms or into the cities there to compete in the labor pool as an unskilled worker," he said.

Those who want farming considered solely as a business generally favored the flexible price support program of the Eisenhower administration farm program and a minimum of government regulation.

But those who said they wanted to preserve the small farms advocated price supports at either 90 per cent or 100 per cent of parity for all farm products, including livestock, poultry and milk as well as crops. Parity is the price goal of farm programs. At the present time, only a part of the crops are supported. None of the livestock and poultry products, or fruits and vegetables are supported.

PUCO Aides Slated To Outline Views

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State utilities commission members will be questioned today on their views concerning utility rates.

Robert L. Moulton, Ralph Winter and Ed Kenealy will appear before a committee of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission.

The committee yesterday questioned utilities commission executives to find out how utilities determine customer rates.

The committee, headed by Rep. John J. Chester Jr. (R-Franklin), will report on the findings to its parent body. The service commission, in turn, will make recommendations to the Legislature on whether existing laws concerning utility rates should be changed.

Village Clerk Quits

LORAIN (AP)—Charles Miller resigned as village clerk at Amherst last night in protest of the voters' decision Nov. 8 to sell the town's electrical distribution system to the Ohio Edison Co.

Damages Sought From Magazine

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A two-million-dollar libel suit has been filed against Rave Magazine by screen actress Terry Moore.

An article concerning the actress and the opening of the Hilton Hotel in Istanbul, Turkey, in the October issue of the magazine was "malicious, false, libelous and degrading," the complaint alledged.

Miss Moore's attorney Jerry Giesler said the actress took exception to a reference about a picture taken of her by a Turkish cameraman.

These Days

In 1956, Taft will be missed most because there is no one on hand with his skill for keeping the party together in the Congress. While Vice President Nixon works hard at it, he is regarded by the men on the Hill as belonging to the White House and not to them. Knowland, on the oher hand, belongs to the Congress but not to the White House. Taft bestrode them both.

This fact creates a nostalgia for Taft and is one reason why the movement for a memorial for him at this time seems to be important to those who were his friends and why Congress voted the ground for the monument. He fitted a particular niche in our current history. He filled a great role in his party's history. How significant he was can best be measured by the fact that he has not been replaced by anyone.

Taft, of course, had many opponents, and perhaps today it can be said in the Senate, more of them were in the Republican than in the Democratic Party. That undoubtedly represents his most distinctive characteristic, namely, that while he was strictly partisan, he managed to work effectively with good minds in both parties.

Russian Cleric's Visa Is Cancelled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cancelled the visa of Russian Archbishop Borris to visit this country.

The State Department said this action was taken because the Soviet government wanted Boris to act in the United States indefinitely as head of an American church organization.

Apparently, this will prevent the proposed visit to Russia by the Rev. Louis Dion, American Roman Catholic priest.

Planning Board Named Chairman

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Capital Planning Board, established by the last Legislature, has named Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland) as its chairman.

Under provisions of the Capital Planning Act, the state finance director, John M. Wilcoxon, becomes secretary of the board.

Still to be named is the chief of the new State Division of Capital Planning, a finance department subsidiary which will assign priority on spending of all capital improvement funds, subject to approval by the Legislature.

Wilcoxon said his choice for the post is Wilbur Zoll, 51, chief maintenance engineer at the Boys Industrial School. The capital planning post pays $9,000 yearly.

What Are Farmer's Troubles?

Red Hot Feud Boiling High Among Big, Small Operators

(Editor's Note: There's a red hot feud on between small and big farm operators. The reasons behind it, and what each side says should be done about it are set forth in the following story by AP farm reporter Ovid A. Martin, third in a series of five articles.)

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rapid mechanization of agriculture—spurred by huge war and postwar demands—is serving to pour fuel on a long smouldering rift between "small' and "big" farmers.

And declining prices of farm products the past few years are serving to fan the feud.

Recent hearings on farm problems held by the Senate Agriculture Committee in major farming areas of the country indicated this division may become a major issue—along with farm price supports—in next year's presidential campaign.

Machinery, electrification, better seeds, improved fertilizers and the like are making it possible to grow more and more crops on fewer and fewer acres. Likewise, new feeds are opening the way to the production of more meats, eggs and poultry with less feed and labor.

This increased efficiency is putting a squeeze on the operators of smaller farms who do not have the finances to take advantage of improved mechanization or enough land to justify their use.

Largely because of the mechanization, crop surpluses have been built up. Prices have been depressed as a consequence. Naturally, the less efficient producers are hit the hardest—and they are, in most cases, operators of smaller farms.

This development has given rise to new demands that government farm policies be designed to protect the "family - type" farm against the encroachments of corporate-type farming.

Government reports show there has been a rather sharp decline in the total number of farms in this country during the past 20 years. The decline has been accompanied by an increase in the average size of farms.

This situation is bringing to the forefront demands of some farmers and their leaders that the nation decide whether agriculture is to be regarded as merely a business-type enterprise or a social institution designed not only to produce food and fiber, but to preserve a rural way of life.

Conflicts over these two philosophies dominated many of the Senate committee hearings.

Typifying the viewpoint that agriculture is solely a business enterprise was the testimony given by President H. E. Slusher of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation at a hearing at Des Mines, Iowa.

"Recognition should be given," he said "to the fact that farming is a business and not just a way of life; that as a business, farms have become larger to make mechanization practical; that there is no virtue in making small farm operators any more than in making small business men; that subsistence farmers must be dealt with as a welfare problem and not as a farm problem."

Then there was the advice of plain-spoken Daniel E. Boodry, who has farmed 33 years in Goshen County, Wyo. Asserting agriculture "can take care of itself if left alone," Boodry suggested that farmers "hollering" about the situation should quit the farm.

On the other hand came the complaint of R. V. Fitzgerald Jr., farmer-spokesman for his neighbors in Aurora County, S. D.

"We decry the efforts of those who would foist upon the farmer any farm program which will, through economic necessity, place the farmer into the employ of giant 'corporation' farms or into the cities there to compete in the labor pool as an unskilled worker," he said.

Those who want farming considered solely as a business generally favored the flexible price support program of the Eisenhower administration farm program and a minimum of government regulation.

But those who said they wanted to preserve the small farms advocated price supports at either 90 per cent or 100 per cent of parity for all farm products, including livestock, poultry and milk as well as crops. Parity is the price goal of farm programs. At the present time, only a part of the crops are supported. None of the livestock and poultry products, or fruits and vegetables are supported.

PUCO Aides Slated To Outline Views

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State utilities commission members will be questioned today on their views concerning utility rates.

Robert L. Moulton, Ralph Winter and Ed Kenealy will appear before a committee of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission.

The committee yesterday questioned utilities commission executives to find out how utilities determine customer rates.

The committee, headed by Rep. John J. Chester Jr. (R-Franklin), will report on the findings to its parent body. The service commission, in turn, will make recommendations to the Legislature on whether existing laws concerning utility rates should be changed.

Village Clerk Quits

LORAIN (AP)—Charles Miller resigned as village clerk at Amherst last night in protest of the voters' decision Nov. 8 to sell the town's electrical distribution system to the Ohio Edison Co.

Damages Sought From Magazine

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A two-million-dollar libel suit has been filed against Rave Magazine by screen actress Terry Moore.

An article concerning the actress and the opening of the Hilton Hotel in Istanbul, Turkey, in the October issue of the magazine was "malicious, false, libelous and degrading," the complaint alledged.

Miss Moore's attorney Jerry Giesler said the actress took exception to a reference about a picture taken of her by a Turkish cameraman.

These Days

In 1956, Taft will be missed most because there is no one on hand with his skill for keeping the party together in the Congress. While Vice President Nixon works hard at it, he is regarded by the men on the Hill as belonging to the White House and not to them. Knowland, on the oher hand, belongs to the Congress but not to the White House. Taft bestrode them both.

This fact creates a nostalgia for Taft and is one reason why the movement for a memorial for him at this time seems to be important to those who were his friends and why Congress voted the ground for the monument. He fitted a particular niche in our current history. He filled a great role in his party's history. How significant he was can best be measured by the fact that he has not been replaced by anyone.

Taft, of course, had many opponents, and perhaps today it can be said in the Senate, more of them were in the Republican than in the Democratic Party. That undoubtedly represents his most distinctive characteristic, namely, that while he was strictly partisan, he managed to work effectively with good minds in both parties.

Russian Cleric's Visa Is Cancelled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cancelled the visa of Russian Archbishop Borris to visit this country.

The State Department said this action was taken because the Soviet government wanted Boris to act in the United States indefinitely as head of an American church organization.

Apparently, this will prevent the proposed visit to Russia by the Rev. Louis Dion, American Roman Catholic priest.

Council Receives Nov. 1-15 Report

Councilman Clarence Helvering Tuesday night read to city council the report of City Auditor Lillian Young for the first 15 days of November.

The report, showing funds, receipts, expenditures and balances in that order, was accepted as follows:

General Fund, $2,957, $11,942.67, $4,607.48; Water Works Operating Fund, $7,279.36, $2,739.64, $47,-270.79; Sewage Disposal Fund, $1,874.80, $1,473.02, $10,612.03; Auto Street Repair Fund, $109.17, $4,-031.46, $879.12; Gas Tax Fund, none, $1,601.76, $4,205.73; Water Works Trust Fund, $85, $80, $2,-755; Police Pension Fund, none, $446.55, $5,758.04; Firemen Pension Fund, none, $125, $23,464.10.

Japanese Soldier Found, Takes Life

MANILA (AP)—A Japanese straggler who was captured early this month after 11 years in Luzon jungles hanged himself today, a Philippine army spokesman said. Seaman Noboru Kinoshita, 33, previously had asked Filipino army guards to kill him because he was ashamed to return to Japan in defeat.

Planning Board Named Chairman

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Capital Planning Board, established by the last Legislature, has named Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland) as its chairman.

Under provisions of the Capital Planning Act, the state finance director, John M. Wilcoxon, becomes secretary of the board.

Still to be named is the chief of the new State Division of Capital Planning, a finance department subsidiary which will assign priority on spending of all capital improvement funds, subject to approval by the Legislature.

Wilcoxon said his choice for the post is Wilbur Zoll, 51, chief maintenance engineer at the Boys Industrial School. The capital planning post pays $9,000 yearly.

Ohio Republican Leaders Learn Campaign Line

'School' Is Scheduled To Teach Policies Laid Down By Eisenhower

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State and county Republican leaders went back to school this week to study the campaign line laid down by President Eisenhower.

Even before his recent illness, the President called for a party organization reaching deep into the "grass roots" of every precinct.

He directed tate chairmen at a Denver meeting last fall to "go down and reach that 50 per cent of the people who do not vote and get them to believe in some of the things that you believe in your own heart."

Ray C. Bliss, state GOP chairman, carried out the former European military commander's order by staging a two-day Ohio Republican campaign conference in Columbus.

National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and a host of top-drawer Republicans explained modern campaign methods. Ohio county chairmen, chairwomen and state committee members will carry the message to local party leaders for the 1956 election drive.

The presidential directive was right down Bliss' alley. The Akron insurance man long has advocated political organization of that type and he wasted no time.

Encouraged by Eisenhower's return to the Washington scene, party leaders at the closed session displayed a determination to carry on with or without him as a presidential candidate.

Bliss asserted that his party needed "only an effective selling campaign to win in 1956 whether or not Eisenhower is the candidate.'

Hall said the President's decision whether to run would be his own.

Leaders stressed that Eisenhower and Republican philosophies were one and the same, indicating a determination to avoid frictions that followed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's loss of the nomination in the 1954 convention.

Leaders also made it apparent the coming campaign would stress a "peace and prosperity" theme directed especially towards labor and youth.

Bliss told party leaders it was their job to make workers realize they now are receiving a greater share of industrial prosperity than ever before. He said pay increases currently represent gains in real wages in contrast to New Deal raises that he said were needed to catch up with the mounting cost of living.

Bliss said the Republican Party offers young people the best hope of prosperity without war.

"It is the duty of party workers," he said, "to see that this great potential strength is built into the party organization, that young people are taught the mechanics of regisering and voting and invited to share in the responsibilities of conducting a winning campaign."

The state chairman stressed that a selling job should be directed at "our best potential markers — young people and unionized workers who are beginning to rebel against being treated as 'in the pocket' Democrat votes."

County chairmen in coming weeks will pass on to local party workers techniques reviewed at the campaign "school".

Their application amid uncertainty over Eisenhower's plans, say politicians, assure intense activity in politically potent Ohio next year.

Revolutionary War Vet To Be Honored

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Monument Builders of Ohio, Inc., has voted to help finance a memorial at Caldwell to John Gray who, when he died at the age of 104, was Ohio's last surviving veteran of the Revolutionary War.

Part of the cost of the memorial is to be paid by residents of Caldwell. The monument builders will pay the remainder, said Irvin C. Meyer of Cincinnati, president of the organization.

The monument builders have been in annual convention here.

Flemming Deplores Public Attitude Toward Teachers

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Director of Defense Mobilization Arthur S. Flemming deplored the public's attitude toward its teachers in a speech at the 40th annual Chamber of Commerce dinner here last night.

"Society has no right to deliberately penalize those willing to serve," the former Ohio Wesleyan University president said, referring to teachers' salaries.

He told some 600 persons attending the dinner that the nation's defense would suffer unless more engineers, scientists and skilled specialists were trained in our school systems.

He added that an improvement in high school courses was needed along with higher salaries and better working conditions for teachers.

"This is one of the most serious problems of our times," Flemming said.

Father Buried Beside 2 Boys

CHICAGO (AP)—Anton Schuessler, shy 42-year-old tailor, yesterday was buried beside the bodies of his two slain sons, just 28 days after their bodies and that of a schoolmate were found strangled in a forest preserve.

Officially, Schuessler died of a heart seizure while undergoing shock treatment at a sanitarium where he had been taken for treatment after sleepless nights that followed discovery of his sons bodies.

But his widow, Eleanor, alone now except for a bird and a dog that were family pets, says he died of a broken heart caused by grief over loss of their only children and the horror of their deaths.

3 Utah Hunters Stranded In Storm

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Six Idaho hunters trapped by a sudden snowstorm were found Tuesday but nine others in Utah still awaited rescue.

The nine hunters were stranded in a Forest Service ranger station east of here in northern Utah's Wasatch Mountains. A plane dropped bed rolls and food. A snowmobile was expected to bring them out today.

British Scientists To Visit Russia

LONDON (AP)—Six of Britain's top atomic scientists left for Russia today to inspect the Soviet's atomic power plants.

Two other officials will join them later in the Soviet Union.

The British experts were invited to visit Russia at the Geneva "Atoms for peace" conference three months ago. At the close of the conference some Russian chiefs visited Britain and inspected a top secret research station.

GOP Chieftain Objects To Union Fund Grab

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Feikens, Michigan Republican chairman, says he believes labor unions should not compel members to contribute funds to political activities.

He said the CIO has taken over the Democratic Party in his state, and now finances party operations with union dues.

Feikens' comments were made to newsmen yesterday in an outline of his talk here to Ohio state and county GOP leaders in the final session of a two-day campaign conference.

He said he had no objection to unions taking part in political campaigns.

Feikens said a University of Michigan survey indicated that 41 per cent of union members preferred the Republican Party in 1952.

Toledo Dishwasher Guilty In Slaying

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Earl Denuit, 35-year-old dishwasher, was convicted of first degree murder yesterday in the hammer slaying of a hotel cook.

Three common pleas judges who heard the case recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory, with a pardon possible after 20 years.

Denuit was charged with killing William Tadlock, 30, with whom he boarded, last Oct. 3. He told deputy sheriffs he killed Tadlock because he was in love with Tadlock's wife. She denied that she loved Denuti.

The Tadlocks came here from Indianapolis, where they were married in 1952.

Bainbridge Mayor Dies At Age 64

COLUMBUS (AP)—Stewart Giffin, 64, three-term mayor of Bainbridge in Ross County and a retired Army lieutenant colonel, died in a hospital here yesterday after a long illness.

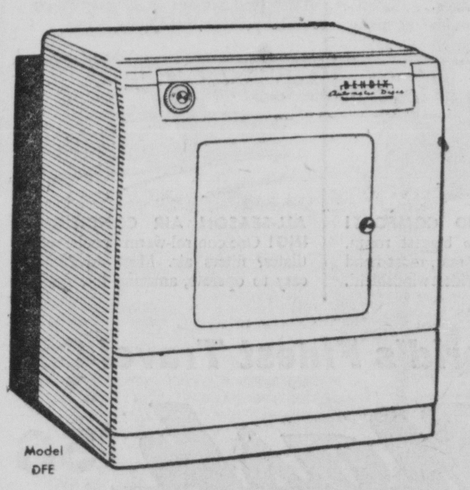

He was graduated from West Point in 1913 and served in both world wars, returning to his Bainbridge family home after retirement in 1946.

Toledo Dishwasher Guilty In Slaying

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Earl Denuit, 35-year-old dishwasher, was convicted of first degree murder yesterday in the hammer slaying of a hotel cook.

Three common pleas judges who heard the case recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory, with a pardon possible after 20 years.

Denuit was charged with killing William Tadlock, 30, with whom he boarded, last Oct. 3. He told deputy sheriffs he killed Tadlock because he was in love with Tadlock's wife. She denied that she loved Denuti.

The Tadlocks came here from Indianapolis, where they were married in 1952.

Bainbridge Mayor Dies At Age 64

COLUMBUS (AP)—Stewart Giffin, 64, three-term mayor of Bainbridge in Ross County and a retired Army lieutenant colonel, died in a hospital here yesterday after a long illness.

He was graduated from West Point in 1913 and served in both world wars, returning to his Bainbridge family home after retirement in 1946.

CHEROKEE INDIAN THANKSGIVING FESTIVAL PRECEDES PALEFACES'

Ancient Indian methods of grinding corn and weaving are carried on in Oconaluftee village.

By C. B. BLACKWELL
Central Press Association Correspondent

CHEROKEE, N. C.—Autumn is the time of harvest, celebration and thanksgiving all over rural America.

This is especially picturesquely and traditionally true here in the Land of the Cherokees. In this centuries-old community the season of thanksgiving does not wait until Turkey Day in November. It begins much earlier and continues until all the crops have been stored and made secure against the winter.

This is Indian country, ancient and present.

It is the 50,000-acre Qualla boundary, largest reservation east of Wisconsin. It is a rugged but beautiful land of majestic mountains, vast forests where bear and other wildlife breed and roam, of rushing streams and quiet, peaceful, flourishing and fruitful broad valleys. Its people are intelligent and industrious, although most of them have not seen the outside world.

Fat cattle graze upon the luxuriant grass of many meadows. Bountiful crops of grain and tobacco grow upon fertile hillsides and in the deep, moist coves. Modern schools and vocational shops and churches dot the landscape. Yet all the legends and lore, the arts and crafts and the traditions of the Cherokees of old have been handed down through the centuries and kept alive and preserved.

The Cherokees are a devout people. They live very much to themselves except for the thousands of tourists who annually trek through this valley along the Oconaluftee and into the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

* * *

QUALLA is the home of the eastern band of Cherokees. They are descendants of a remnant which fled from Gen. Winfield Scott's soldiers in 1838 during the tragic Indian Removal from Carolina to Oklahoma, and took refuge in the remote fastness of the Great Smokies where they defied capture.

Here, these survivors of one of America's Indian nations took root and their descendants have built a most prosperous community.

This Cherokee autumn festival is the scene of annual tribal gatherings. Archery and blowgun contests, primitive games and dances are presented. One is the green corn dance, an ancient harvest ceremonial and a highlight of the Indian Thanksgiving. Here, upon the Oconaluftee greensward, is also played one of the most gruelling games known to ancient and modern time sports.

This is the game of Indian handball. It is similar to lacrosse but much older. Muscular young braves battle it out before audiences of thousands. Players are carefully selected according to tribal custom. A purification ritual lasts the entire night before the game.

Oconaluftee village is a recreation of the Indian town of 1750 as the first white explorers and settlers saw it. The village is the centerpiece of the autumn fair. It is faithful to the aboriginal past. Here, men and women practice the arts of basket weaving, cooking, finger-weaving, pottery turning and weapon-making.

Cherokee craftsmen with primitive ax and fire hollow out canoes from giant poplar trees that were saplings 200 years ago. Here, too, can be seen Indians feathering arrow and blowgun darts, fashioning bows from stout native forest woods and making blowguns.

Inside the seven-sided Old Town house and in many of the cabins are the furnishings and trappings used by the Cherokees two centuries ago. Here hang the deer and bear skins, the ball sticks, the gourd rattles of the medicine ritual, and the hand-carved masks worn in the ages-old eagle dance.

* * *

THE STORY of the Cherokees is dramatically created each year in a giant Mountainside theater production, Unto These Hills, which has just closed its fifth season after being seen by more than 500,000 people. This dramatic achievement in behalf of the Indians was accomplished when 21 communities formed the Western North Carolina Associated Communities organization to develop the recreational and industrial life of the Great Smoky Mountains National park upon which Qualla boundary borders. One of the organization's first projects was the drama.

Proceeds from the drama are used by the Cherokee Historical association to broaden Cherokee incentive and open up new opportunities for Indians on the reservation. The association has established college scholarships for Indian boys and girls in the fields of dramatics, anthropology, medicine, dentistry and home-making.

The association also operates a year-around school of fine arts, arts and crafts and dramatics. It has spent thousands of dollars on community development programs with prizes for proficiency and skill in arts and crafts, agriculture and forestry competition and a program for expanding the production of handiwork.

Gary 'Yep' Cooper Claims He Frequently Says 'Nope'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Talking up a storm, Gary Cooper today denied he is merely a "yep" man.

This shatters another Hollywood traditon. Cooper is supposed to be the towns worst talker. A conversation with him is reputed to be the closest thing to a monologue, with Coop supplying only occasional "yep."

The question was put to him pointblank: Is he just a "yep" man?

"I don't think so," he replied. "I like to talk — when I have something worth talking about.

"Besides, 'yep' is a pretty positive word. You can't get by in this business if you say 'yep' all the time. You've got to learn to say 'nope.'

"For instance, I didn't do a picture for a year between 'Vera Cruz' and 'The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell.' I guess I read between 50 and 60 scripts. I turned them down.

'The trouble in this business is that when you achieve a certain success, they want you to repeat it. The majority of the scripts that are sent to me are Westerns, and most of them are bad. They might be good for somebody, but they are things I have done before. Not just the plots, but whole scenes.

"I'm the kind of a guy who has to do new things. If I don't have enthusiasm for what I'm doing, I give a lousy performance. That isn't good.

See—the guy can talk! As a matter of fact, he'll rattle along at a pretty good clip, if he's interested in the topic. But if he's asked questions he thinks are silly or trivial, an A-bomb couldn't blast a comment out of him.

Cooper said the "yep" reputation became attached to him after he did an Edgar Bergen radio show in which he spoke only the affirmative monosyllable. He did a similar turn as guest star in a Dennis Morgan-Jack Carson film. No doubt the legend has grown because of the tight-lipped heroes he has played on the screen. Like many top stars, he knows what can be achieved by an economy of dialogue.

Mercy Is Urged For Icepick Slayer

WARREN (AP)—Kenneth Jordan, 18, of Eatontown, N. J., was convicted of first degree murder last night in the icepick slaying of 15-year-old Sylvia Tanner of Warren in a lovers' lane July 25.

A common pleas jury recommended mercy, making a life prison sentence mandatory but sparing Jordan from death in the electric chair. Judge G. H. Birrel did not immediately pass sentence.

Newark Man Pleads Innocent In Death

COLUMBUS (AP) — Woodrow Secrist, 34, of Newark, pleaded innocent to a second degree manslaughter charge here yesterday and was bound to the grand jury under $2,500 bond.

Secrist was charged in the traffic death of Melvin Mercer, 53, Columbus, who was thrown from his truck after it collided with Secrist's car at a Columbus intersection last Friday.

County 'Play Day' Success; 449 Compete

A total of 449 girls from the 11 Pickaway County high schools competed in the annual "Girls' Play Day" held at Walnut Township School Tuesday.

The girls participated in various sporting activities which included volleyball, ping-pong (both singles and doubles) and free-play on the trampoline. Dancing was also part of the all-day program.

Because of the heavy rain, several of the outside sports events had to be cancelled and the entire program held inside the school gymnasium.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, termed the program a "success," declaring "the girls had a very fine time."

* * *

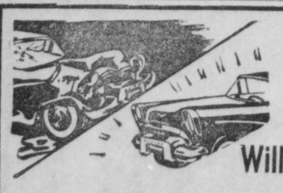

"GIRLS' PLAY Day," which is supervised by the county physical education teachers, is quite similar to the boys' counterpart—field day—in which they participate in various sporting activities. The affair usually lasts a day.

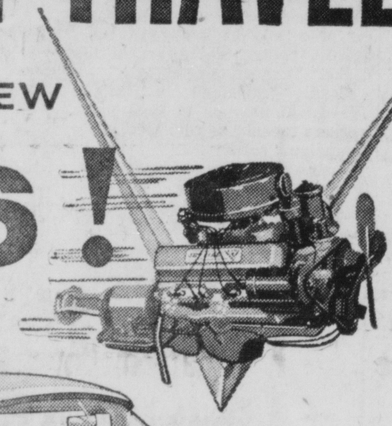

Purpose of the "Play Day," declared McDowell, is to allow the girls to participate in sporting events and to give them an opportunity to associate and get acquainted with girls from other schools.

Prelude Given To Coming Of Winter Spell

Southwestern Ohio Lashed By Storms; Mercury To Plunge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mother Nature gave vicious warning last night that a winter spell is coming within hours.

Weather forecasts indicate that recent 60-70 degree temperatures are destined to end abruptly, that a low tonight of well below freezing can be expected.

The Weather Bureau at Chicago issued special cold wave warnings for most of the Midwest with temperatures in the Plains tonight expected to hover around the zero mark. This same cold air mass continues to spread eastward toward the Ohio Valley.

Temperatures were as much as 40 degrees lower this morning from southern Colorado through Oklahoma and about 25 degrees below normal over the Middle West. St. Louis for instance dropped from a balmy 81 Tuesday to 30 degrees during the night. Chicago dipped from 71 degrees to 29.

The coldest weather still was in Montana and parts of Idaho, with temperatures ranging in Montana from 2 to 26 below, with Dillon reporting the lowest mark. In Idaho, the lowest reading was -28 at Malad City.

The winter prelude came in Southwestern Ohio last night with scattered but violent storms described in one area as a "small twister."

A Montgomery County volunteer fireman was electrocuted shortly after 5 a. m. today when he came in contact with a felled power line.

No other injuries were reported, but barns, homes and utility lines were damaged extensively.

The victim was Robert Hedges, 28, of near Dayton, a member of the Washington Twp. Fire Department. He was working with sheriff's deputies and line crews of the Dayton Power & Light Co. to clear away downed wires.

The storm apparently struck first two miles west of Greenville on Ohio 71, near where an antique shop was reported blown across the road.

UTILITY CREWS north of Greenville said the area had been hit by a "small twister."

There, high winds lifted a garage roof and dumped it on a 12,000-volt power line, cutting service for 1½ hours to Ansonia and Rossburg, DP&L officials reported.

Telephone communication to Ansonia and Rossburg also was disrupted.

Greenville itself was spared major damage, reports indicated. But west and north of that city, to the Indiana border, rural areas were badly hit.

Heavy rain fell in Cincinnati accompanied by inch-thick hail stones, the Weather Bureau said. Other Hamilton County towns, east of the Queen City, also had hailstorms.

The Weather Bureau blamed the heavy rains on an approaching cold front.

"A cold front will move first through the Cincinnati area," the Weather Bureau said in a bulletin. "There is a chance that severe thunderstorms will develop along this front and a slight, but only a slight chance that isolated tornadoes may also develop.

"The danger will be over when the wind shifts to west or northwest and stays there."

Hailstones as large as golf balls were reported in Cincinnati and northern Kentucky last night.

Winds up to 45 miles per hour were reported at the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

Doctors Not Human Enough, Survey Of Public Contends

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The public's main gripe against doctors and hospitals is that they don't seem to be human enough, says a new study of people's feelings.

Only a fifth of the people interviewed thought physicians charged too much. Most did think hospitals cost too much.

Their main criticism was a feeling that doctors and hospitals gave an impression of not caring deeply about the human patient, said Dr. Earl Lomon Koos, professor of social welfare, Florida State University, Tallahassee.

He said the remedy seems to be better human relations.

Only 19 per cent of the persons surveyed thought doctors' fees were too high, Dr. Koos said in a talk prepared for the American Public Health Assn.'s 83rd annual meeting.

But half criticized doctors for "being unwilling to make house calls" or insisting that patients, unless severely ill, come to their offices or to the hospital. About as many objected to long waits in doctrs' offices.

And 64 per cent indicated that modern doctors, concentrating on techniques to find and combat illness, "lacked the human warmth of the old-time general practitioner who possibly knew less about medicine but more about his patients," Dr. Koos said.

He quoted one woman as saying, "If we could feel that we mean something to Dr. Blank, I'd be happy with him. But I'm sure he has to look at baby's history, or have his nurse tell him who we are, so he'll know what to call me. It's like running through an assembly line to go to his office."

Eighty-two per cent thought hospital costs too high, and 71 per cent thought hospital care unsatisfactory, Dr. Koos continued.

He said the hospital, as well as the doctor, "is caught in the coils of an advancing medical technology, as well as faced with pressing problems of labor and economics."

"But it is also necessary to state our belief that many of the ills current in hospital-patient - family relations are present simply because, as the respondents imply, the patient has been somewhat forgotten in the course of hospital progress."

Russia Offering Saudi Arabia Aid

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A diplomatic source here said last night Russia has offered to support Saudi Arabia "y all possible means" in its dispute with Britain over the Buraimi oasis.

The oasis is on the ill-defined border beween Saudi Arabia and the British - protected Oman sultanates. Soldiers of the sultanates of Abuhabi and Muscat, led by British officers, on Oct. 26 occupied the oasis, which is in an area believed to be rich in oil. The oasis contains only a handful of Arab villagers.

TV, Grandma Seen Causes Of Kids' Colds

HOUSTON (AP) — Television and grandmothers could be indirect and innocent causes of recurrent "colds" in some children. Southern Medical Assn. was told today.

Many kids watch TV while "lying on a rug," and mold and dust from a rug can touch off an "allergic" type cold in children sensitive to such material, Dr. Almon F. Halpern of Dallas told the annual convention of the Southern Medical Assn.

He said chemicals are available for spraying rugs and overstuffed furniture in the TV room, and these can "quite effectively control" harmful airborne materials.

As for grandma, he said while she might be up and around and apparently "healthy," she might also have chronic bronchitis which could make her a "healthy carrier" of germs which her grandchild could catch.

Halpern, speaking of certain children of preschool age who get a respiratory infection "about once a month," put it this way:

"The presence of a 'healthy' individual in the child's environment may be the sole cause of a recurrising acute respiratory infection.

"This person may be a mother with a 'chronic sinus,' a grandmother with a chronic bronchitis, or an older brother or sister who attends schools and who has frequent colds.

"In some instances we have had to treat the entire family with 'cold shots' before successfully controlling the child's infection."

Argentina's Government Battles Labor

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's anti-Peron government and Peronista labor leaders were still locked in a struggle for supremacy today. Thousands of workers obeyed the Peronistas' general strike call, but other thousands ignored it.

The new provisional government headed by Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu, which took over Sunday after ousting Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi from the presidency, arrested 146 persons in the Buenos Aires district alone for inciting people to strike, capital police said.

The Aramburu regime met the strike challenge in a showdown fight with the big General Confederation of Labor (CGT), which was the main support of Juan D. Peron, Argentina's former dictator. The government declared the strike, which started at midnight Monday, "is failing."

But the fact remained that the walkout hit hardest in some of the more essential industries, such as meat packing, metal working and petroleum.

The question seemed to be who could last the longer—the governmen faced with steadily dropping stocks of meats and other supplies, or the workers who are losing more pay every day.

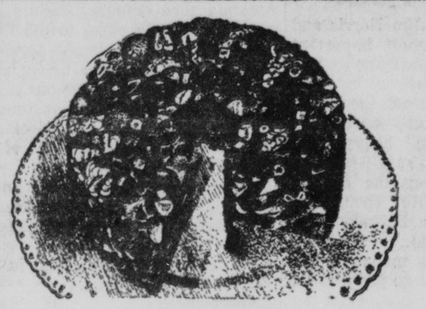

The armed forces, which are guarding key points in industrial centers of the country to prevent any outbreaks of violence, were posted last night in the big Retiro railroad station in downtown Buenos Aires. Firemen also were assigned to the station.

U.S. Said Shunning Israeli Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported to be unwilling to meet Israel's request for an immediate American guarantee against possible attack from Arab countries.

This country has previously offered to join others in guaranteeing the borders of both Israel and her Arab neighbors if they agree on the boundaries and settle other long-standing disputes. President Eisenhower renewed that offer last night. Neither side has yet accepted.

Top American officials believe that the immediate guarantee Israel is asking, in advance of any Israeli-Arab agreement, is unnecessary even though Egypt is building its armed forces with big quantities of Russian-made weapons.

Red Raiders Fall, 62-36, To Amanda

Atlanta's basketball fortunes took another nosedive Tuesday night as the Red Raiders fell before a strong Amanda team, 63-26 at Amanda.

The Amanda Aces displayed clever teamwork as they whipped the ball around the floor and were able to penetrate the Raiders' defense. Smith, the Aces' cool, relaxed forward showed great versatility.

Atlanta had great difficulty in breaking through the strong Amanda zone defense. Failure to work the ball in close to the basket was Atlanta's biggest trouble. The Raiders also had trouble grabbing their own rebounds.

In the foul shooting department, Atlanta made good on 14 of 26 tries while the Aces sunk 16 of 22 tries.

Atlanta's overall record now stands at one win and four losses. The Raiders have lost both league tilts.

The reserve tilt also went in favor of the Aces, 56-29.

Norris, Weill In Fuss Over Rock's 'Tour'

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Norris and Al Weill, the two most important men in Rocky Marciano's life, clashed openly today.

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has promoted all the heavyweight champion's fights, said Marciano shouldn't be touring the country refereeing bouts. He should be getting ready for a February title defense, Norris said.

Weill, the Rock's manager, told Norris, in effect, to go jump in the lake.

The argument was significant in that the IBC's exclusive contract with Marciano ran out recently and hasn't been renewed. Under it, the IBC held rights to promote all the heavyweight champion's fights, either by itself or in conjunction with other promoters.

"For the life of me, I can't see eye-to-eye with Weill on these tours," said Norris. "It doesn't make sense."

Norris wants Marciano to make his next defense in February instead of waiting until June as announced by Weill.

What does Weill think?

"I'm still the manager of Rocky Marciano—the only manager he's got," he snapped. "This is not barnstorming, but a good will tour."

Bowl Bids Given 3 Ohio Outfits

COLUMBUS (AP) — Three Ohio football teams have received bowl bids.

Bowling Green, Xavier and Heidelberg are among 13 teams which have been asked if they are interested in playing in the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., Dec. 4.

Heidelberg also is among eight teams being considered for the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Jan. 2.

USTA Aide Named

DELAWARE (AP) — The United States Trotting Assn. board of directors has named Corwin Nixon of Lebanon as the fifth board member because of added activity and membership in Ohio.

Swami Picks Michigan To Win By 13-7

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry Liska, Midwest sports editor for the Associated Press whose season guessing average stands at .705 percent, today predicted that the score of the Big Ten title game Saturday will be:

Michigan 13, Ohio State 7.

Liska says:

"For Michigan's Wolverines, this is a must for passage to the Rose Bowl as well as the Big Ten title with a 6-1 record. On the other hand, defending champion Ohio State is ineligible for a Pasadena encore and a triumph would produce solely another league crown with a 6-0 mark. The Buckeyes have Howie Cassady, but that home hollering by a crowd of nearly 100,000 will be a terrific lift for Michigan."

The battle might well turn out to be a battle between Cassady and Michigan ends Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz.

While Coach Bennie Oosterbaan lauded his two great ends, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State was equal in his praise of Cassady. He called him the "greatest football player I've ever seen."

Oosterbaan said he has never seen two greater ends than Kramer and Maentz on one team.

Hayes praised his team for its great comeback after losing to both Stanford and Duke and still being able to move towards a title game against Michigan.

"We were being compared to the great 1954 Ohio State team," Hayes said, "but our boys worked hard and managed to improve. The turning point was the Wisconsin game (Ohio State 26, Wisconsin 16) where we were considered a team that could go on its own."

TUC's Jim Swink Is 'Back Of Week'

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Swink of Texas Christian, latest of the many storied backfield aces to emerge in the Southwest Conference, today was named the Associated Press Back of the Week.

The Horned Frogs, closing in on the Cotton Bowl, didn't need any more than Swink to bring the ambitious Longhorns of Texas back to earth.

It was a 47-20 ball game and Swink went across for four touchdowns. Only one was commonplace, coming on a 1-yard plunge. The others were spectacular with Swink swinging along on runs of 62, 57 and 34 yards.

Red Raiders Fall, 62-36, To Amanda

Atlanta's basketball fortunes took another nosedive Tuesday night as the Red Raiders fell before a strong Amanda team, 63-26 at Amanda.

The Amanda Aces displayed clever teamwork as they whipped the ball around the floor and were able to penetrate the Raiders' defense. Smith, the Aces' cool, relaxed forward showed great versatility.

Atlanta had great difficulty in breaking through the strong Amanda zone defense. Failure to work the ball in close to the basket was Atlanta's biggest trouble. The Raiders also had trouble grabbing their own rebounds.

In the foul shooting department, Atlanta made good on 14 of 26 tries while the Aces sunk 16 of 22 tries.

Atlanta's overall record now stands at one win and four losses. The Raiders have lost both league tilts.

The reserve tilt also went in favor of the Aces, 56-29.

Norris, Weill In Fuss Over Rock's 'Tour'

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Norris and Al Weill, the two most important men in Rocky Marciano's life, clashed openly today.

Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has promoted all the heavyweight champion's fights, said Marciano shouldn't be touring the country refereeing bouts. He should be getting ready for a February title defense, Norris said.

Weill, the Rock's manager, told Norris, in effect, to go jump in the lake.

The argument was significant in that the IBC's exclusive contract with Marciano ran out recently and hasn't been renewed. Under it, the IBC held rights to promote all the heavyweight champion's fights, either by itself or in conjunction with other promoters.

"For the life of me, I can't see eye-to-eye with Weill on these tours," said Norris. "It doesn't make sense."

Norris wants Marciano to make his next defense in February instead of waiting until June as announced by Weill.

What does Weill think?

"I'm still the manager of Rocky Marciano—the only manager he's got," he snapped. "This is not barnstorming, but a good will tour."

Swami Picks Michigan To Win By 13-7

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry Liska, Midwest sports editor for the Associated Press whose season guessing average stands at .705 percent, today predicted that the score of the Big Ten title game Saturday will be:

Michigan 13, Ohio State 7.

Liska says:

"For Michigan's Wolverines, this is a must for passage to the Rose Bowl as well as the Big Ten title with a 6-1 record. On the other hand, defending champion Ohio State is ineligible for a Pasadena encore and a triumph would produce solely another league crown with a 6-0 mark. The Buckeyes have Howie Cassady, but that home hollering by a crowd of nearly 100,000 will be a terrific lift for Michigan."

The battle might well turn out to be a battle between Cassady and Michigan ends Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz.

While Coach Bennie Oosterbaan lauded his two great ends, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State was equal in his praise of Cassady. He called him the "greatest football player I've ever seen."

Oosterbaan said he has never seen two greater ends than Kramer and Maentz on one team.

Hayes praised his team for its great comeback after losing to both Stanford and Duke and still being able to move towards a title game against Michigan.

"We were being compared to the great 1954 Ohio State team," Hayes said, "but our boys worked

Reserve Half To See Action For Buckeyes

COLUMBUS (AP) — With regular right halfback Jerry Harkrader definitely out of Ohio State's season finale with Michigan Saturday, and his running mate, Jim Roseboro, a doubtful starter, all eyes are turned toward a 199-pound sophomore from Toronto, Ohio.

Reserve halfback Don Sutherin's presence in the Ohio State football picture took on greater significance as the Bucks got their first mid-week workout of the year in Ohio Stadium yesterday.

Sutherin, often referred to by Coach Woody Hayes as "a hard nose who has the possibilities of being a real football player," could see considerably more action Saturday than he has in the past, although Hayes is hesitant.

Sutherin, in previous games, has been used primarily to take advantage of his punting and kickoff abilities. With limited experience at both halves and at the fullback post this season, he stands a chance of a starting assignment against the Wolverines. However, he has yet to carry the ball in a college game.

Harkrader was excused from classes yesterday because of his damaged right knee. Roseboro's injured right knee is mending slowly and if it doesn't permit him to work hard today, he probably will not see much action in the Michigan tilt.

African, Canadian Plod To Ring Draw

LONDON (AP) — Ewart (Pottie) Potgieter, a guy who stands 7-3 and weighs 325½, hardly punched his size last night as he plodded through 10 rounds against Canadian James Parker, a mere 6-3 and 225.

Referee Charles Davidson, the lone judge under English rules, declared it a draw.

At best, Potgieter, a 21-year-old South African, was a disappointment in the bout which was to serve as a test of his ability in his bid for a U. S. appearance.

There wasn't a sign of a KO punch throughout the fight.

Xavier Expected To Reject Bowl

CINCINNATI (AP)—Xavier University probably would reject a bid for the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., on Dec. 4, a university official said today. Bowling Green University yesterday rejected a similar bid.

"I do not believe the university will give any consideration to the invitation,' said an Xavier spokesman declared.

Packer Vet Shines In Pro Gain Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Howe Ferguson, Green Bay Packers veteran, cut sharply into the ground-gaining lead of Alan Ameche, Baltimore Colts' fullback, National Football League statistics show.

Ameche still tops the league with 707 yards gained on 142 carries for a 5-yard average per carry. Ferguson has gained 633 yards on 128 attempts for a 4.9 average. During the last two weeks he has cut Ameche's lead to 74 yards.

Third place is held by defending champion Joe Perry of San Francisco with 541 yards.

In the passing department Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears has bounded from fourth to second place. Otto Graham, Cleveland Browns ace, keeps the lead with 108 attempts, 58 completions for 987 yards and five touchdowns. Brown has thrown 118 times, completed 64 for 1,016 yards and five touchdowns.

Y. A. Tittle of San Francisco is third, followed by Philadelphia's Bobby Thomason and Washington's Eddie Le Baron.

Tom Fears, veteran Los Angeles end, jumped all the way from seventh to first place in pass catching with nine nabs for a total of 36, one more than Harlon Hill of the Bears, Billy Wilson of San Francisco and Pete Phios of Philadelphia.

Doak Walker of Detroit took over the scoring leadership with 69 points. Tied for second with 60 points are George Blanda of the Bears and Vic Janowicz of Washington.

Arizona Star Near 2nd Title

NEW YORK (AP)—It's never been done before, but Arizona's Art Lupino is bulling his way to a second straight major college rushing title.

With two games left in the football season, Luppino has rushed for 1,106 yards to maintain his lead by 20 over Texas Christian's redoubtable Jim Swink, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today.

Luppino collared 200 yards against Montana last weekend while Swink broke loose for 235 against Texas. Swink, with two games left, has a 1,086 total.

Banks, Kaline Win Soph Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—Ernie Banks, who hit more home runs in one season than any other shortstop in the history of baseball, was named the National League's sophomore of the year today in a virtually unanimous vote by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn of America.

The lean infielder of the Chicago Cubs received all but three of the votes of the 99 writers who participated in the annual Associated Press poll. Henry Aaron, Milwaukee's young outfield star, attracted two votes and Sam Jones, fireball pitcher of the Cubs, got one. Banks thus joins Al Kaline, the spectacular outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, who won sophomore honors in the American League.

Doaker Joins Otto In Rapping Pro Play

DALLAS (AP) — Doak Walker, former Southern Methodist All-America and now a Detroit Lion's star, says that dirty football is increasing in the National Football League.

Walker said he had to agree with Otto Graham, quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, that dirty playing is on the increase.

Walker urged that referees oust dirty players from the game and said that suspension or a heavier fine would help eliminate unsportsmanship-like tactics.

Young, Spieser Slated For Bout

CHICAGO (AP) — Paddy Young, long a highly rated middleweight, tries to take another step into the ranks of the light heavyweights against Chuck Spieser tonight in a 10-round bout in Chicago Stadium.

Spieser, 26, of Lansing, Mich., will be out to better his record of 16 victories and 3 losses in the televised bout at 10 p. m.

Young, 27, New York, is the more experienced, he won 49, lost 11 and had 3 draws.

Reserve Half To See Action For Buckeyes

COLUMBUS (AP) — With regular right halfback Jerry Harkrader definitely out of Ohio State's season finale with Michigan Saturday, and his running mate, Jim Roseboro, a doubtful starter, all eyes are turned toward a 199-pound sophomore from Toronto, Ohio.

Reserve halfback Don Sutherin's presence in the Ohio State football picture took on greater significance as the Bucks got their first mid-week workout of the year in Ohio Stadium yesterday.

Sutherin, often referred to by Coach Woody Hayes as "a hard nose who has the possibilities of being a real football player," could see considerably more action Saturday than he has in the past, although Hayes is hesitant.

Sutherin, in previous games, has been used primarily to take advantage of his punting and kickoff abilities. With limited experience at both halves and at the fullback post this season, he stands a chance of a starting assignment against the Wolverines. However, he has yet to carry the ball in a college game.

Harkrader was excused from classes yesterday because of his damaged right knee. Roseboro's injured right knee is mending slowly and if it doesn't permit him to work hard today, he probably will not see much action in the Michigan tilt.

African, Canadian Plod To Ring Draw

LONDON (AP) — Ewart (Pottie) Potgieter, a guy who stands 7-3 and weighs 325½, hardly punched his size last night as he plodded through 10 rounds against Canadian James Parker, a mere 6-3 and 225.

Referee Charles Davidson, the lone judge under English rules, declared it a draw.

At best, Potgieter, a 21-year-old South African, was a disappointment in the bout which was to serve as a test of his ability in his bid for a U. S. appearance.

There wasn't a sign of a KO punch throughout the fight.

Xavier Expected To Reject Bowl

CINCINNATI (AP)—Xavier University probably would reject a bid for the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., on Dec. 4, a university official said today. Bowling Green University yesterday rejected a similar bid.

"I do not believe the university will give any consideration to the invitation,' said an Xavier spokesman declared.

Packer Vet Shines In Pro Gain Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Howe Ferguson, Green Bay Packers veteran, cut sharply into the ground-gaining lead of Alan Ameche, Baltimore Colts' fullback, National Football League statistics show.

Ameche still tops the league with 707 yards gained on 142 carries for a 5-yard average per carry. Ferguson has gained 633 yards on 128 attempts for a 4.9 average. During the last two weeks he has cut Ameche's lead to 74 yards.

Third place is held by defending champion Joe Perry of San Francisco with 541 yards.

In the passing department Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears has bounded from fourth to second place. Otto Graham, Cleveland Browns ace, keeps the lead with 108 attempts, 58 completions for 987 yards and five touchdowns. Brown has thrown 118 times, completed 64 for 1,016 yards and five touchdowns.

Y. A. Tittle of San Francisco is third, followed by Philadelphia's Bobby Thomason and Washington's Eddie Le Baron.

Tom Fears, veteran Los Angeles end, jumped all the way from seventh to first place in pass catching with nine nabs for a total of 36, one more than Harlon Hill of the Bears, Billy Wilson of San Francisco and Pete Phios of Philadelphia.

Doak Walker of Detroit took over the scoring leadership with 69 points. Tied for second with 60 points are George Blanda of the Bears and Vic Janowicz of Washington.

Arizona Star Near 2nd Title

NEW YORK (AP)—It's never been done before, but Arizona's Art Lupino is bulling his way to a second straight major college rushing title.

With two games left in the football season, Luppino has rushed for 1,106 yards to maintain his lead by 20 over Texas Christian's redoubtable Jim Swink, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today.

Luppino collared 200 yards against Montana last weekend while Swink broke loose for 235 against Texas. Swink, with two games left, has a 1,086 total.

Banks, Kaline Win Soph Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—Ernie Banks, who hit more home runs in one season than any other shortstop in the history of baseball, was named the National League's sophomore of the year today in a virtually unanimous vote by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn of America.

The lean infielder of the Chicago Cubs received all but three of the votes of the 99 writers who participated in the annual Associated Press poll. Henry Aaron, Milwaukee's young outfield star, attracted two votes and Sam Jones, fireball pitcher of the Cubs, got one. Banks thus joins Al Kaline, the spectacular outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, who won sophomore honors in the American League.

Doaker Joins Otto In Rapping Pro Play

DALLAS (AP) — Doak Walker, former Southern Methodist All-America and now a Detroit Lion's star, says that dirty football is increasing in the National Football League.

Walker said he had to agree with Otto Graham, quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, that dirty playing is on the increase.

Walker urged that referees oust dirty players from the game and said that suspension or a heavier fine would help eliminate unsportsmanship-like tactics.

Young, Spieser Slated For Bout

CHICAGO (AP) — Paddy Young, long a highly rated middleweight, tries to take another step into the ranks of the light heavyweights against Chuck Spieser tonight in a 10-round bout in Chicago Stadium.

Spieser, 26, of Lansing, Mich., will be out to better his record of 16 victories and 3 losses in the televised bout at 10 p. m.

Young, 27, New York, is the more experienced, he won 49, lost 11 and had 3 draws.

City Council, 2 Members Absent, Meets For Less Than Hour

Lawmakers Get Ordinance On Firemen's Week

Councilmen Declare Income Tax Plan Still Unexplained

City council Tuesday night surprised all concerned by adjourning its regular meeting less than one hour after it began.

The abbreviated session—one of the shortest over a period of years — brought chuckles from the lawmakers themselves, caused a handful of onlookers to express amazement, and apparently even threw council's own record out of stride. Length of council meetings for the past few years has averaged close to three hours.

Council passed over pending measures only lightly because there were not enough lawmakers present to conduct regular business. Neither Councilman George Crites nor Councilman Lee Cook was able to return to the city from out-of-town trips in time for the session.

Only five regular members of council were in attendance. Councilman Clarence Helvering, the lone councilman on one side of council chamber, sat facing Councilmen Richard Penn, Harold Clifton, John Robinson and Boyd Horn. At least six votes are needed to pass any newly introduced legislation through suspension of the rules.

* * *

THIS parliamentary rule held to first reading the only new ordinance introduced—a measure designed to put into effect the voters' approval of a shorter work-week for city firemen.

At least four votes are required to pass a measure that has already reached third reading.

Thus the lawmakers Tuesday night could have taken final action on a long-stalled ordinance that would revise Circleville's sewer rental setup, basing rates on the amount of water used. However, there was no mention of this proposal in the formal discussions.

Consideration of the sewer rate revision apparently has been halted since a proposal for a city income tax was placed before council for the first time at the November 1 meeting. Council President Ben Gordon has warned the lawmakers:

"You're going to have to decide which one you want. The public isn't going to stand for both of them."

The income tax ordinance was up only for second reading Tuesday night, and hence also was held under study by the lack of a full council. Several members of the lawmaking body have made it clear, anyway, that they will not vote on the income tax proposal until a "thorough study" is made and the public has had an opportunity to express its views pro and con.

* * *

PASSAGE by council could put the income tax into effect, but Gordon reminded council Tuesday night that:

"Even when council does pass a law, a group of citizens can bring about a referendum and have it placed before the voters for decision."

The ordinance designed to bring about a shorter work-week for city firemen was the first measure read Tuesday night.

Sections of this ordinance, which will be up for second reading at the December 6 meeting, read as follows:

"That whereas at the election held November 8, 1955, a proposed ordinance to provide for a three-platoon system of 56-hour work week for the regular members of the fire department . . . .was passed by affirmative vote. . . .now therefore it is necessary that additional firemen be regularly employed as regular firemen, so that the 56-hour week and three platoon system will operate. . . .

"The fire department. . . .shall consist of ten members, one of whom shall be the chief of fire department and nine regular firemen.

"Any ordinance, part of ordinance, word, number or phrases in conflict with the provisions (of the above). . . .is hereby amended, altered, changed, and modified to conform to the number of men set up by section two (calling for a department of 10 men). . . .This section is not to be construed to in any way alter, change or repeal any other provisions of ordinances heretofore passed in regards to the duties, existing jobs or in any way change any ordinance pertaining to the fire department except as to the number of men in department."

* * *

THE MEASURE'S final section includes a provision to put the new law into effect as an emergency as soon as passed by council.

While less than a half-dozen spectators were present for the meeting, two of them — Denver Greenlee and Bill Ballou — questioned the lawmakers at some length on provisions of the city income tax measure and other phases of the city's financial problems. Penn and others among the councilmen explained, however, that they still are not in position to discuss the income levy plan to any extent because "we still don't know what all is in it."

Penn recalled that Assistant City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins had promised to have copies of the measure prepared and circulated among the lawmakers. According to Penn, this was not done.

"We really don't know any more about it (the 17-page tax ordinance) than you do," he told Ballou and Greenlee.

The ordinance for its first two readings was read only by its brief title. Council has yet to hear the full legislation on this subject.

During the discussion on the tax plan and other possible sources of additional city revenue, Gordon pointed out that the city is going to need more money "in order to carry out the will of the people" who approved the shorter work-week for the firemen. His reference was to the necessity of hiring two additional firemen in order to carry out the decision made at the polls.

* * *

CLIFTON also reminded all those present that sewer problems facing the city require action as soon as possible, and that the city cannot wait for a matter of years in order to get money for this purpose. He emphasized such work is urgent because of the possible health hazards involved.

"You can be assured of one thing," Clifton told the few spectators," and that is that council will make a thorough study of the income tax proposal before any final decision is taken."

The relatively brief meeting ended a short time later.

After the formal session was adjourned, it was discovered that another pending ordinance had somehow been overlooked Tuesday night. It provides for the transfer of $1,000 from the general fund to the fund for gasoline and oil for the police department.

Along with City Safety Director Miller Fissell, some members of council queried Clerk of Council Fred Nicholas and others on how this oversight came about. Nicholas said his records indicate the measure has yet to come up for first reading.

The Herald's records, however, show that it was heard and discussed briefly on first reading at the November 1 meeting. At that time, it was the fifth ordinance of the night's deliberations.

One member of council explained:

"We must have forgotten all about it."

City Council, 2 Members Absent, Meets For Less Than Hour

Lawmakers Get Ordinance On Firemen's Week

Councilmen Declare Income Tax Plan Still Unexplained

City council Tuesday night surprised all concerned by adjourning its regular meeting less than one hour after it began.

The abbreviated session—one of the shortest over a period of years — brought chuckles from the lawmakers themselves, caused a handful of onlookers to express amazement, and apparently even threw council's own record out of stride. Length of council meetings for the past few years has averaged close to three hours.

Council passed over pending measures only lightly because there were not enough lawmakers present to conduct regular business. Neither Councilman George Crites nor Councilman Lee Cook was able to return to the city from out-of-town trips in time for the session.

Only five regular members of council were in attendance. Councilman Clarence Helvering, the lone councilman on one side of council chamber, sat facing Councilmen Richard Penn, Harold Clifton, John Robinson and Boyd Horn. At least six votes are needed to pass any newly introduced legislation through suspension of the rules.

THIS parliamentary rule held to first reading the only new ordinance introduced—a measure designed to put into effect the voters' approval of a shorter work-week for city firemen.

At least four votes are required to pass a measure that has already reached third reading.

Thus the lawmakers Tuesday night could have taken final action on a long-stalled ordinance that would revise Circleville's sewer rental setup, basing rates on the amount of water used. However, there was no mention of this proposal in the formal discussions.

Consideration of the sewer rate revision apparently has been halted since a proposal for a city income tax was placed before council for the first time at the November 1 meeting. Council President Ben Gordon has warned the lawmakers:

"You're going to have to decide which one you want. The public isn't going to stand for both of them."

The income tax ordinance was up only for second reading Tuesday night, and hence also was held under study by the lack of a full council. Several members of the lawmaking body have made it clear, anyway, that they will not vote on the income tax proposal until a "thorough study" is made and the public has had an opportunity to express its views pro and con.

PASSAGE by council could put the income tax into effect, but Gordon reminded council Tuesday night that:

"Even when council does pass a law, a group of citizens can bring about a referendum and have it placed before the voters for decision."

The ordinance designed to bring about a shorter work-week for city firemen was the first measure read Tuesday night.

Sections of this ordinance, which will be up for second reading at the December 6 meeting, read as follows:

"That whereas at the election held November 8, 1955, a proposed ordinance to provide for a three-platoon system of 56-hour work week for the regular members of the fire department . . . .was passed by affirmative vote. . . .now therefore it is necessary that additional firemen be regularly employed as regular firemen, so that the 56-hour week and three platoon system will operate. . . .

"The fire department. . . .shall consist of ten members, one of whom shall be the chief of fire department and nine regular firemen.

"Any ordinance, part of ordinance, word, number or phrases in conflict with the provisions (of the above). . . .is hereby amended, altered, changed, and modified to conform to the number of men set up by section two (calling for a department of 10 men). . . .This section is not to be construed to in any way alter, change or repeal any other provisions of ordinances heretofore passed in regards to the duties, existing jobs or in any way change any ordinance pertaining to the fire department except as to the number of men in department."

* * *

THE MEASURE'S final section includes a provision to put the new law into effect as an emergency as soon as passed by council.

While less than a half-dozen spectators were present for the meeting, two of them — Denver Greenlee and Bill Ballou — questioned the lawmakers at some length on provisions of the city income tax measure and other phases of the city's financial problems. Penn and others among the councilmen explained, however, that they still are not in position to discuss the income levy plan to any extent because "we still don't know what all is in it."

Penn recalled that Assistant City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins had promised to have copies of the measure prepared and circulated among the lawmakers. According to Penn, this was not done.

"We really don't know any more about it (the 17-page tax ordinance) than you do," he told Ballou and Greenlee.

The ordinance for its first two readings was read only by its brief title. Council has yet to hear the full legislation on this subject.

During the discussion on the tax plan and other possible sources of additional city revenue, Gordon pointed out that the city is going to need more money "in order to carry out the will of the people" who approved the shorter work-week for the firemen. His reference was to the necessity of hiring two additional firemen in order to carry out the decision made at the polls.

CLIFTON also reminded all those present that sewer problems facing the city require action as soon as possible, and that the city cannot wait for a matter of years in order to get money for this purpose. He emphasized such work is urgent because of the possible health hazards involved.

"You can be assured of one thing," Clifton told the few spectators," and that is that council will make a thorough study of the income tax proposal before any final decision is taken."

The relatively brief meeting ended a short time later.

After the formal session was adjourned, it was discovered that another pending ordinance had somehow been overlooked Tuesday night. It provides for the transfer of $1,000 from the general fund to the fund for gasoline and oil for the police department.

Along with City Safety Director Miller Fissell, some members of council queried Clerk of Council Fred Nicholas and others on how this oversight came about. Nicholas said his records indicate the measure has yet to come up for first reading.

The Herald's records, however, show that it was heard and discussed briefly on first reading at the November 1 meeting. At that time, it was the fifth ordinance of the night's deliberations.

One member of council explained:

"We must have forgotten all about it."
